

Burglary Suspects Subdued By State Police After Gun Play

Shot Tears Through Side Of Automobile

Two fast-acting State troopers wrenched a gun from a suspected burglar in Stroudsburg yesterday after he shot at them from the back seat of a police squad car.

The fight took place in a side street off Ninth and Monroe Sts., about 3:50 p.m. Although some residents heard the report, they were unaware of what was happening.

With a .32 automatic pistol pointed at his back, red-headed Pfc. Ed. Beneski of the Stroudsburg substation ignored orders to "keep driving through town."

Instead he pulled the car off the highway, stopped it and swung around to grab for the gunman's pistol.

Cpl. Carson Overgard of the Mount Pocono substation, seated next to Beneski, had already yanked out his own gun.

In the brief, fast action which followed, the prisoner managed to fire one shot. The slug slipped through the steel body of the car and emerged through the left rear fender.

Then Beneski's hand clamped over the receiver of the automatic. The flesh of his thumb caught in the action and jammed the gun, preventing it from firing again.

At the same time the prisoner was knocked cold with a blow from a State police gun barrel.

The troopers took both prisoners on into the Stroudsburg substation. Dr. John P. Lim, 805 Main St., was called to give the groggy prisoner treatment.

After receiving aid, the man was taken to the General Hospital in East Stroudsburg by Beneski and Pfc. Alex G. Kern.

At the hospital, a gash in the prisoner's scalp was closed with 16 stitches. His head was swathed in bandage.

In the meantime, Overgard remained at the substation. The other prisoner, whose name was given as Reginald Albert Cope, of Portland RD2, Tenn., remained handcuffed to a chair at the substation.

He and his companion, whose name was given as Orland T. Benson, San Pedro, Cal., were later questioned again by troopers then committed to the county jail, where they were locked in separate cells.

Sgt. Morgan B. Davis of the Stroudsburg station said charges of burglary and violation of the firearms code would be lodged against the two today. Other charges may also be filed.

The burglary charges resulted from a break-in at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Ducklow, Stroudsburg RD3, about 2:30 p.m. yesterday.

Mrs. Ducklow and her two children were sleeping upstairs in their home, located north of Stroudsburg on Route 611 opposite CLU Park.

Mrs. Ducklow was awakened by the sound of crashing glass below. "I thought it was the children—they'd broken a window or something."

She went downstairs to investigate and found a man had smashed the window, climbed in and was walking into her dining room.

"He wasn't carrying anything," Mrs. Ducklow said. "When he saw me he offered me $10 to pay for breaking the window. I said I didn't want any money, if he would just leave."

Mrs. Ducklow saw him climb into a black panel truck. The license plate was bent down so that she could not see the numbers. (Sgt. Davis said later it bore Tennessee plates.)

As soon as the truck pulled away Mrs. Ducklow telephoned Stroudsburg State police.

Overgard was checking along Route 611 after being alerted. He spotted the black truck reportedly owned by Cope, and stopped it, Sgt. Davis said. The two occupants were taken to the Mount Pocono station. Beneski arrived there a short time later.

The two men were searched at the substation, but Benson had his pistol concealed inside his sock and shoved down in his shoe. After questioning, the men were taken to Mrs. Ducklow's residence by Beneski and Overgard.

Mrs. Ducklow identified the man who had broken into her home.

Then the troopers put the two in the back of the squad car, handcuffed them together and headed for Stroudsburg.

The street Beneski turned down after Benson pulled the gun adjoins the F. C. Lesone garage.

His wife, however, reported hearing a shot while in her home at 839 Thomas St., about a block away. Apparently most passersby thought the noise was a car back firing.

At the sheriff's office Cope said he was 45 years old and a cook. He told a deputy that a week earlier he had been imprisoned in Cartersville, Ga., for being "under the influence of liquor" while "sleeping in a car." He said he had been a resident of Pennsylvania for 12 years, but did not say exactly when he had lived in state.

Benson gave his age as 34, and his profession as foundry worker. He told the deputy he had spent a total of eight years in the armed forces, off and on from 1936 to 1951.

Telephone Firms Take Legal Action In Week-Old Strike Of CIO Communication Workers

New York, (AP)—A West Virginia company mapped Taft-Hartley action against telephone strikers yesterday, while a sister firm went to court in Kansas and got an injunction.

The twin legal attacks were the first in a week-old strike of 16,000 Western Electric Co. installers in 43 states.

Both were aimed at the CIO Communications Workers of America. The union's Western Electric pickets have kept some non-striking telephone operators away from their switchboards.

Non-striking operators also belong to the union.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. in West Virginia claimed the union is "violating the Taft-Hartley act by engaging in violent, coercive, mass picketing and physical assaults upon the company's employees."

The company added that it is filing charges of unfair labor practices with the National Labor Relations Board in Pittsburgh.

The C. & P. is a subsidiary of the nation's overall telephone firm, American Telephone and Telegraph.

In Topeka, Kas., Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.—another A. T. & T. subsidiary—got a temporary injunction barring Western Electric pickets from interfering with phone service in Kansas.

Said Warden S. Miller, Southwestern's manager for Kansas: "The statewide restraining order was obtained reluctantly and only after there appeared to be no other way to restore telephone service to the public."

"We have a contract, with the CWA-CIO which is still in full force and effect and the company is living up to it. Therefore, there is nothing for us to settle through negotiations..."

He referred to a contract with the non-striking operators. However, many of these contracts are due to expire in the next few months. Western Electric strikers claim their fight for higher wages will affect the operators when these contracts expire.

Phone operators are on strike in New Jersey, Northern California and Nevada. But their strikes are not directly linked to the Western Electric walkout.

Operators' strikes in Michigan and Ohio have been settled. Some 12,000 Ohio Bell operators today accepted terms similar to those that ended the Michigan walkout earlier—$4 to $7 more a week in wages.

Previous average wages in Ohio ranged from $38 to $88 a week.

Conflicting Moves Feature Steel Dispute

Washington, (AP)—Conflicting moves developed last night to challenge President Truman's power to seize a strike-threatened industry.

New peace talks went forward in the big steel labor dispute—with "no real progress" but an increased willingness to negotiate reported—amid these developments:

One—On Capitol Hill, Chairman Murray (D-Mont) of the Senate Labor committee announced that public hearings will begin today on a pro-administration bill setting forth the conditions under which the President could seize an industry to avert a strike.

In effect, the bill would give the President the legal authority which some of his critics contend he has already "usurped" by seizing the steel industry.

Two—Two of the nation's powerful business organizations set the stage for a mass meeting here today of 170 industrial and business leaders from all over the country to study Truman's steel mills seizure.

The meeting, presumably to chart strategy to counter the President's action, will be held behind closed doors. It is sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers.

Steel spokesmen have bitterly disputed the President's seizure authority, and four big steel companies have begun court action seeking to oust the government from the seized mills.

The bill to give the President clear cut legal seizure authority was introduced by Sen. Morse (R-Ore). "The Oregon legislator, who sometimes sides with the administration, contends that Truman had an 'inherent right'—the same words Truman himself used—to seize the steel industry."

Murray said the first witness will be Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger of the Wage Stabilization board.

White House Claims Truman Misquoted

Washington, (AP)—The White House took the unusual step yesterday of saying President Truman had been misquoted by a caller who said the President told him he would veto a bill to give the states title to submerged lands off their coasts.

The bill is still in Congress, where Senate and House conferees are trying to resolve differences in varying versions passed by the two branches.

I. T. Smoot, a former postmaster at Salt Lake City, said on leaving the White House about noon that Truman had told him when the bill does reach his desk, he will veto it.

Atomic Blast Scheduled Las Vegas, Nev. (AP)—The second blast in the spring atomic series appeared set for this morning at Nevada Proving Grounds.

St. Paul's Industries Hit By New Flood

St. Paul, Minn. (AP)—Swollen to its greatest depth in recorded history, the Mississippi River poured muddy flood water through low areas of St. Paul last night, affecting more than 5,000 persons and millions of dollars worth of river front industries.

Downstream 125 miles the Mississippi posed a serious threat to Winona, Minn., a city of 25,000. If a dike fails there, one-third of the city will be flooded.

At 4 p.m., CST, the river level here was 21.85 feet, 7.85 feet above flood stage and 2.15 feet above the worst previous flood of 1881. U. S. Army Engineers said the river will probably stop rising when it reaches 22.5 feet Thursday.

The Red Cross estimated 1,500 homes, chiefly on St. Paul's West Side, had been flooded and that 5,000 persons were either driven out or forced to move to upper floors.

Holman Municipal Airport was closed. All but one plane had been removed from northwest airlines' main overhaul base. A large section of the St. Paul railway freight and passenger switching yards was inundated. The American Hoist and Derrick Co. was pumping flood water from its big factories.

The sprawling south St. Paul shipyards were closed as 300 trucks, 25 bulldozers and 1,000 men worked on a four-mile diking system.

The lower "deck" of a naval reserve training station on a Mississippi island was soaked with flood water as 16 men and two officers manned dikes to protect the half million dollar installation.

Ike Favored In New Jersey

By The Associated Press

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower ruled a slight favorite last night on the eve of New Jersey primary where he faces another test with Sen. Robert A. Taft in the Republican presidential "popularity poll."

Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota is also entered on the GOP ballot, but is generally considered an outsider.

Nearly a million voters were expected to turn out for the contest, which marks the first time Taft and Eisenhower have both been on the same ballot since the New Hampshire primary on March 11. Taft failed in an effort to get his name off the New Jersey ballot.

A survey of New Jersey newspaper editors showed Eisenhower in the role of favorite, with expectations that he would get 56 per cent of the total GOP vote against 34 per cent for Taft.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who is setting the pace in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, is unopposed on the New Jersey Democratic ballot.

Second Remington Trial Date Set For Early May

New York, (AP)—The second perjury trial of William Remington, 34, former $10,000-a-year Department of Commerce economist, was tentatively set yesterday by Federal Judge John W. Clancy for May 5.

The five counts of the new indictment allege that Remington, of Ridgewood, N. J., falsely denied passing government secrets to a Russian spy courier.

He is also charged with lying in testifying that he never knowingly attended Communist party meetings, that he never paid party dues, that he never tried to recruit anyone into the party, and that he did not know until last year that a young Communist League existed at Dartmouth College which he attended in the late 30's.

Emergency Landing Honolulu, (AP)—A big Pan American Airways Stratocruiser with 38 passengers aboard made an alternate landing at Hilo, Hawaii, yesterday after one of its four engines failed.

North Dakota State Guard Units Put On Active Duty To Battle Wild Red River

Fargo, N. D. (AP)—Three

North Dakota State Guard units were put on active service last night as the flooding Red River pounded at an earthen dike protecting the Veterans Hospital here.

C. P. Medley, hospital manager, and the Red Cross issued an appeal for 200 volunteer workers to strengthen the dike, extending along the swollen stream for more than a half mile. Plans were also made to seal off the hospital's lower floors, if necessary.

Medley said the hospital had 140 patients of its own, plus about 36 from St. John's Hospital, which was evacuated Saturday as the Red engulfed its lower floors.

Gov. Norman C. Brundage activated headquarters and headquarters company of the 140th transportation battalion and the 767th truck company for the flood emergency.

The river level stood at 33.5 feet yesterday. So far more than 2,000 persons in the area of Fargo and Moorhead, across the river in Minnesota, are homeless. Patients from St. John's hospital in Fargo were evacuated Saturday.

The Dakota clinic was abandoned as floodwaters threatened to pour into the basement.

About 50 blocks in Fargo and Moorhead are under water.

City manager James Dunn declared the "flood emergency" after U. S. weather observer R. W. Schultz raised his flood crest prediction from 34.5 feet to nearly 36.

Officials were uncertain what the higher crest would mean. In 1943 the Red River rose to 34.5 feet. The city's worst flood occurred in 1897, when a 40.2 foot level was recorded.

Allied Tanks Blast Reds On Korea's Central Front

By Stan Carter

Seoul, Korea, Tuesday, (AP)—Fifty-four Allied tanks wheeled into position in front of U. N. lines on the central front yesterday and shot up Red fortifications for almost two hours.

Eighth Army said the bombardment—biggest tank action in weeks—smashed more than 150 Communist bunkers, gun emplacements and trenches. About 300 Reds were killed or wounded.

Not far away 400 Chinese Red infantrymen attacked a U. N. hill position last night under a 500-shell artillery barrage. Allied troops were driven off but stormed back again early today under an artillery and mortar barrage.

Bad weather limited B-26 night bombers to two sorties Monday night. B-29 Superforts hit the Sinanju rail bridges.

The overcast also cut naval aircraft sorties, but the battleship Iowa and the destroyer Mackenzie steamed into the east coast harbor of Wonsan and attacked Communist shore gun emplacements.

The Allied tanks fired from fixed positions southwest of Kumson. The Reds returned the first with artillery, mortars and small arms.

The battle for the central front hill position picked up where another left off only 200 yards away earlier in the day.

In the first fight, Allied infantrymen recaptured the high ground in a swaying, close-quarter fracas with Chinese Reds that lasted nearly six hours.

Washington, (AP)—New freight increases estimated to cost the nation's shippers about 678 million dollars a year were granted yesterday by the government.

An order by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) increases rates 15 per cent above levels of a year ago, but six per cent of this already is in effect in the south and west and nine per cent in the east. Therefore the "new increase" for the south and west will be nine per cent and for the east six per cent. Some exceptions apply to a short list of commodities.

The railroads had asked a 15 per cent increase last year, claiming their revenues have failed to keep pace with rising labor and material costs. Only a part of this was granted originally, the remainder being approved today.

Jersey Bell Settles Dispute Newark, N. J. (AP)—(Tuesday)—A contract agreement—providing a $4 a week pay increase—was reached yesterday between the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company and its 10,000 striking telephone operators.

The agreement includes a maintenance of union membership clause, but not the union shop sought by the operators' union, the Communications Workers of America (CWA).

Dueno told newsmen that his probe disclosed the only warning given to the passengers before the crippled plane was ditched in the Atlantic near here was: "No smoking, fasten your belts."

The district attorney said he will question four of the five crewmen. Dueno so far has talked only with the pilot, Capt.

John C. Burn, husband of singer Jane Froman.

The civil aeronautics board has already started its own probe of the crash, and the Puerto Rican legislature has ordered another investigation.

John B. Randolph, chief of the aviation division of Puerto Rico's transportation authority, said last night in an official report that the same plane which crashed Friday had caused alarm when it arrived from New York Thursday with its number one engine dead. The plane radioed for emergency equipment to be ready at the airport but landed safely, Randolph said.

Disaster Hangs By Thread At Council Bluffs

Omaha, (AP)—Three-quarters of the city of Council Bluffs, Ia.,—with 45,000 population—last night had been moved out of threatened areas as flood disaster hung by a slender thread over the bluffs and across the Missouri River, the sister city of Omaha.

Seventeen square miles of the two cities had a ghost town aspect last night as the marauding Missouri came mashing down after mercilessly punishing Pierre, S.D., and Sioux City, Ia., along with a host of smaller towns.

From South Dakota down through Nebraska and Iowa, and into Kansas and Missouri the river was tirelessly punching away.

In two other rich midwest valleys, the Mississippi and the Red River of the north were creating misery.

The Red River hit at the twin-cities of Fargo and Moorhead, routing an estimated 2,000 from homes and pouring over about 50 blocks of ground.

To meet the threat there Gov. Norman C. Brundage of North Dakota ordered out three State guard units. An the Red Cross rushed out a call for volunteers to work through the night building sandbag dikes to protect the menaced Fargo veterans hospital.

It all added up to one of the worst combinations of Midwest flooding in modern times—a disaster which the Red Cross translated into terms of 19,349 families—perhaps 74,000 persons or more—made homeless in a nine-state area including Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

For frightful depredations, the Missouri was taking the lead.

Army engineers reported one and a quarter million acres of land, some of the richest in middle America, under water along the Missouri and tributaries.

The record-breaking crest yesterday reached Sioux City, Iowa's second largest metropolis. But capitulation already had come to Sioux City with its 84,035 residents. The crest only sent water higher and further into flooded suburban areas and the stockyards district.

As of 12 noon (EST), Mayor Ralph Henderson ordered a shutdown of all Sioux City business places except drug stores and eateries to ease the strain on sanitary sewers.

Downstream the river, normally only a couple of stone throws wide, spread out 10 miles and more.

Gobbled up in the surging wash of silt laden water were hundreds of farms. Towns—perhaps a dozen of them in the flatland valleys—were deserted by all except a few hardy stay-behinds, relief workers—and still rising water.

For sheer drama, however, the situation at Omaha and Council Bluffs, about 100 miles downstream from Sioux City, was unrivaled.

While water in unprecedented volume strained against dikes protecting the cities, river forecasters boosted by a foot and a half the crest expected in the metropolitan area Thursday morning.

That means a 31.5 foot crest—12½ feet over flood stage, nearly seven feet over the known record high of 1881, nearly five feet over the crest which levees and flood walls were designed to handle.

Investigations Uncover Major Facts In San Juan Air Crash

San Juan, Puerto Rico, (AP)—

District Attorney Sollo Dueno, investigating last Friday's Pan American Airways crash in which 52 of 69 aboard perished, said yesterday 11 survivors claimed the crewmen did not help them adequately.

Dueno told newsmen that his probe disclosed the only warning given to the passengers before the crippled plane was ditched in the Atlantic near here was: "No smoking, fasten your belts."

The district attorney said he will question four of the five crewmen. Dueno so far has talked only with the pilot, Capt.

PLAYING IT SAFE, here's a photo of a trout enthusiast getting set to put on film the spot where the big ones were stocked several days ago. The season opens today, but with the water high and the weather cold, we'd wager this lad will be attending the baseball season opener in Philly.

Poor Prospects In Sight For First Day Of Fishing Season

High water, cool weather with the threat of more rain and possible snow flakes in the mountain regions, handed even the most avid trout fishermen poor prospects for the opening of the 1952 season this morning.

A total of 38 streams in Monroe and Pike counties, all heavily stocked with legal size trout, will be open to fishing for the first time since March 15.

Fish Warden Floyd Bachman noted that the Big Bushkill Creek in Monroe County has been eliminated from "open" waters this year. It has been replaced by an equally long section of the McMichael's Creek.

Stocking of the Big Bushkill was eliminated this year because it was closed to public fishing and the quota was devoted to McMichael's.

Pennsylvania Fish Commission stocked heavily this spring. Reason was that the fall stocking project was abandoned in 1951.

Sportsmen aiding in dumping fish this year noted that both the size and quality of the fish stocked showed definite improvement over those stocked in previous years.

Fish Warden Bachman warned that the creel limit per day has been cut from ten to eight trout per person.

By special arrangements promoted by Pocono Mountains Sportsmen's Association that section of Broadheads Creek from Stroudsburg Water Co. dam above Stokes Mill to Penn Hills

Tavern, a distance of three and a half miles, has been set aside by the Fish Commission for fishing with artificial lures only. Fishing with live bait is prohibited. Violators are liable to a fine of $25.

Streams open for fishing in Monroe County, their length and type of stocking include:

Aquashicola, brook trout, Saylorsburg, Rt. 115, ten miles; Broadheads Creek, brown and rainbow, six miles; Broadheads Creek, middle branch, brook trout, three miles; Buckwa Creek, Kunkletown, Rt. 904, brook trout, eight miles; Dotter Creek, brook trout, Kresgeville, Rt. 209, six miles; Forest Hill Creek, brook trout, Henryville, Rt. 90, seven miles; Kettle Creek, brook trout, Snyder'sville, Rt. 209, seven miles; Lake Stream, brook trout, Saylorsburg, Rt. 115, three miles; Laurel Run, brook trout, three miles; Lehigh River, brown and rainbow, Stoddardsville, Rt. 115, three miles; McMichael's Creek, brook trout, four miles; Middle Creek, brook trout, Kresgeville, Rt. 209, five miles; Meisdel Creek, brown trout, Kunkletown, Rt. 904, five miles; Paradise Creek, brown trout, Henryville, Rt. 209, six miles; Pensyl Creek, brook trout, Snyder'sville, Rt. 209, four miles; Pocono Creek, brook trout, seven miles; Pohopoco Creek, brook trout, Kresgeville, eleven miles; Scot Run, brook trout, three miles; Snow Hill Dam, near Canadensis, rainbow trout, four acres.

Four Men To Serve Short Jail Sentences

Four young men were put on their honor to go to county jail in Stroudsburg yesterday to serve 17-day sentences for disorderly conduct.

They kept their words. Unaccompanied, the four showed up at the county jail about 9:30 p.m.

They were booked by a deputy and committed to begin their sentences.

The four, listed as David L. Miller, 18, Effort; Donald Bond, 19, Saylorsburg; Roland Newell, 21, Saylorsburg; and Freeman Altmore, 18, Stroudsburg RD1, received the sentence after refusing to pay fines of $5 and costs each, levied by Justice of the Peace Francis Marvin, Bartonsville.

The justice said the four broke windows Saturday at the home of Mrs. Mary Argue, Bartonsville, threw a beer bottle through one of the windows, and annoyed girls living in the house.

After the hearing yesterday the justice was faced with the problem of transporting the four to the jail. The four then volunteered to escort themselves, and the justice took them up on it.

Line Material Plans Addition To Main Plant In Latest Move Of Expansion By Company

The third of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James B. Gaffney
In an effort to expand production facilities, Line Material Co. in East Stroudsburg, a division of McGraw Electric Co., is contemplating an addition to their main plant which will cost $250,000. Work is expected to start as soon as materials are available.

This announcement by company officials indicates clearly the progress Line Material is making and the major role the firm shares in furthering the industrial wealth of the Stroudsburgs.

And, in addition to the proposed building plan, Line Material also has revealed a new boiler house, with the latest boilers and oil tanks, will be in operation this summer at a cost of $85,000.

A contributing factor economically to this section, Line Material first was established in 1911 and the local plant was started in 1925. Only three years ago, as the firm celebrated its 25th anniversary, it became a division of McGraw Electric Co. and many advancements have been noticed since that time.

The third largest Line Material firm in McGraw's 12-team line-up, the East Stroudsburg plant was the only supplier of Park-type lights used on government-operated airports during World War Two. The period during that conflict also was the busiest for employees, since the peak employment was reached at that time with 600 on the payroll. Line Material also gained national recognition in the war effort and received two Army-Navy "E" awards.

After the war, with conditions returning to civilian usage, Line Material began to produce in large quantities for utility concerns throughout the country and presently employs 250 persons and contributed $895,530.00 in pay checks during 1951.

Commenting on the firm's growth, Gilbert L. Smrz, general manager of the local plant said "We are mindful that age is an advantage only if it brings growth in the opportunity and ability to become a substantial part of a community and carry its rightful share of responsibilities to the peoples therein; wisdom to adhere to the principles and ideals by which the confidence of this community and its peoples has been gained."

Comparing the concern's development, back in 1925 only 52 persons were employed and the annual payroll totaled $78,000. Cost of machinery, a paramount phase in any industry's growth, shows $127,471 was utilized in 1925 and today, with increased production, the firm's equipment and machinery totals $1,064,192.

J. R. Altomose, who is personnel director of the local plant, brought the figures up to date, noting that in 1925 shipments from the plant, in dollar value, were $217,403, while last year the over-all amount totaled $3,540,108. Shipments in pounds also tell the story of expansion, since 2,741,424 pounds were moved in 1925 and last year that amount was augmented almost seven times the first figure, totaling 14,404,470 pounds in 1951.

Back in 1925 when the plant covered an area of 31,942 square feet, purchases totaled $71,882 and last year the local facilities were spread over an area 129,200 square feet, and purchased $2,110,237.

"During the past 13 years Line Material's local plant purchased $1,398,964 from local firms," Altomose said "and during the past 27 years our employees have received $10,192,242 in wages and salaries."

A new office building was opened November, 1948 at a cost of $86,000 and it is here that the net-work of material productivity originated.

Recently McGraw Electric Co. constructed two new Line Material plants. One is located at Olean, N. Y. and the other at Sherman, Texas. They also have acquired two additional plants, proving expansion is the keynote for progress by this concern.

Principal products of the East Stroudsburg plant are pole line hardware, used by utilities in building electrical lines; airport lighting units, used on airfields all over the world and street lighting units, used by utilities and municipalities to light their streets.

Smrz, with the company for 30 years, concluded "We have labored unceasingly to improve our position in the community and to improve the position of the company with the outside world, and time has greatly rewarded these efforts. Within our organization, we have tried to give each other cooperation and a full measure of fair treatment."

"All we ask," he added "is a continuation of the fine cooperative spirit and assistance of the public, and we will do our utmost to warrant your continued confidence and aid in building a better community for all of us in which to live."

Part Of 28th On Way Home

Washington, (AP)—The first contingent of 28th Division men left the division station last week for the port of Bremerhaven, homeward bound.

That announcement was made by the Defense department yesterday in response to queries as to whether the 28th's first contingent is on the transport Darby, scheduled to reach New York April 17.

The Defense department said that, in view of the date of the Darby's sailing from Europe, and the date the 28th Division's men left camp, it assumed they are not on the Darby.

New York (AP)—A young driver from State College, Pa., struck and killed an 11-year-old boy in Brooklyn yesterday but police released the driver, saying it was "purely an accident."

Police said Albert E. Snyder Jr., 23, of State College, Pa., was driving along Brooklyn's Belt Parkway when Carmine Lo Bianco, 11, ran across the parkway.

An ambulance was called, but the boy was dead when it arrived. Snyder was released after questioning by police of the Bath Beach Station, who said the driver had not had time to stop before he struck the boy, and was obviously not at fault.

Testing of Tempers

Much has been written and much more will be written about the statistics on motor vehicle accidents throughout the years, since they have become one of the foremost elements in our national life, but there seems to be a certain emphasis on recurrent phases of the known accident data.

For example, in 90 per cent of all accidents, reported in 1951, male drivers were involved.

Of the drivers involved in accidents, 97 per cent of them had at least one year of driving experience, and 38 per cent of the crashes occurred on open highways. More than that, 94 per cent of all vehicles in fatal accidents were in apparently good condition at the time of the crash.

All of which brings us to the proposition that there is an increasingly painful accident phenomenon, which revolves around the temper of the individual behind the wheel. Traffic is heaviest from 7 to 10 o'clock in the morning, when America goes to work and from 4 to 7 in the afternoon and early evening, when the process is reversed. But note this: the number of accidents in the home-coming period are twice that of the early morning rush.

Which brings us to the conviction that in the morning the man behind the wheel has completed his night's rest, had his morning coffee, and is comparatively at peace with the world, so that he can take the traffic irritations in his stride without getting burned up about the stupidity of his fellows.

But in the afternoon, his nerves and emotions are lacerated from the hours during which the world has been giving him the business, and when the encounters addle-pated driving as he heads for home, his boiling point is apt to be low. Hence, the increased traffic hazards, as the vexed citizen takes chances to get himself moving rapidly in the direction of home. What's to be done? Nothing. You can't legislate against frayed nerves.

Parents Are People

Parents, a long-suffering group of second-class citizens driven to querulous uncertainty by the boldly authoritative and bafflingly conflicting preachments of child psychology faddists, someday may cast off that hangdog look.

A hopeful note, falling as sweet music on tender parental ears cauldroning under ceaseless buffetings, has been sounded by no less an authority than Dr. Benjamin M. Spock.

The thesis of Dr. Spock, professor of child development at University of Pittsburgh and one of the world's top experts in his field, was this:

Modern parents are getting so much advice on how to raise children they are more confused than ever.

Spinach is good for them. Spinach is bad for them. Fairy tales are fine. Fairy tales are fierce.

* Out of this welter of conflict, Dr. Spock concluded, there is "some evidence" a "sensible, middle-of-the-road" attitude toward raising children is beginning to develop.

Well spoken, Dr. Spock!

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

Inherent Powers

The American Constitution is a written document that can be bent to the times by decisions of the United States Supreme Court. These decisions vary between loose and strict interpretations, depending upon the personnel of the court.

However, when it comes to a question of "inherent powers" for the President, powers not granted to him by the Constitution but asserted by him as arising out of its Preamble, the document itself loses all its force. An "inherent power" cannot be defined. It can be anything that the President himself may determine it to be. One day, because of an "inherent power," the President seizes the steel industry; the next day, he may seize your home, to quarter favorites.

The power and function of the President is clearly stated in Article II of the Constitution. In that article, not one word is said about "inherent powers." However, it is provided that "the executive power shall be vested in the President of the United States of America."

The very word, executive, used here means that the President is granted "the general administrative control of those executing the laws..." ("Myers v. U. S.") Certainly when the President has a law to use, he need not go far afield to seek "inherent powers."

In labor relations matters, the President has the Taft-Hartley Law, which he is faithfully bound to execute. His unwillingness to use this measure because it displeases him has nothing to do with the law. Wherever a provision of a law is mandatory, it is not the function of the President to like or dislike the law; his function is to execute it. Mr. Truman thinks apparently that his private desires are public functions.

The Tenth Amendment to the Constitution kills off any idea of "inherent powers" because it specifically says:

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people."

In Kansas v. Colorado, the Supreme Court held:

"This amendment... disclosed the widespread fear that the National Government might, under the pressure of a supposed general welfare, attempt to exercise powers which had not been granted. With equal determination the framers intended that no such assumption should ever find justification in the organic act, and that if in the future further powers seemed necessary they should be granted by the people in the manner they had provided for amending that act..."

In the Sick Chicken Case (Schechter Poultry Corp. v. United States), which killed the NRA, the Supreme Court held:

"The Sherman Antitrust Act was completely gutted by fire which started in an old barn at the rear of the theatre and causing a loss estimated at $250,000... before Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg firemen got it under control."

School Supt. — Dr. Robert Brown was re-elected district superintendent of Stroudsburg schools. Presiding was Dr. Marshall Metzger, with C. D. Hellock as secretary. Other members attending: Roy M. Houser, A. L. Stackhouse, N. O. Bender and Dr. D. F. Sullivan.

Fishing — 250,000 fishermen in Pennsylvania invaded the mountain streams as trout season opened today.

Laurel Blossom Time — Plans are progressing for Monroe County's second annual celebration of Laurel Blossom Time.

Fishermen — Fishing season opened with a high wind and snow flurries. The 1275 fishermen who carried Monroe licenses didn't have much luck.

Golden Wedding — Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bush, Canadensis, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Tuesday, with members of the family and many friends present. A pretty cake was presented by Mrs. G. I. Bush, Mount Pocono, a great grand daughter.

Wyckoff's — A whole section of The Record was devoted to the 57th Anniversary of Wyckoff's Department Store, with pictures of the late A. B. Wyckoff, Miss Anna M. Wyckoff and E. H. Wyckoff.

He says New York is "undoubtedly the center of business. Certainly there is more money handled in New York than anywhere and consequently attracted there are the best music, best ballet—there is practically nothing in that line that New York hasn't to offer."

Mr. Maurois has observed that there is almost nothing "old" in New York. Everything is new. He went down to Coentis Slip to look at the oldest house in New York. It was gone. In its stead a brand-new post-office had been erected.

"So dynamic!" he exclaimed. The most fascinating thing he found in New York — I suppose you will find it in his guidebook — was a bottling plant "with an enormous machine that produces 400,000 bottles of beer a day."

"Are they drinking that much beer in New York?" he asked. Among the customs of our country "the etiquette between men and women" interested him particularly.

He mentioned, among other things "pushing the chair under the woman when she sits down at a table," and the fact that "the American girl waits in front of a door until the man goes around and opens it."

Mr. Maurois has already published another book. It is called "Cooking With a French Touch."

I suppose the new guide book will be called "New York with a French Touch."

We might be able to persuade him to stay another two or three weeks and write a "Guide to America."

"The conditions to which power is addressed are always to be considered when the exercise of power is challenged. Extraordinary conditions may call for extraordinary remedies. But the argument necessarily stops short of an attempt to justify action which lies outside the sphere of Constitutional authority. Extraordinary conditions do not create or enlarge Constitutional powers. The Constitution established a national government with powers deemed to be adequate, as they have proved to be both in war and peace, but these powers of the national government are limited by the Constitutional grants. Those who act under these grants are not at liberty to transcend the imposed limits because they believe that more or different power is necessary. Such assertions of extra-Constitutional authority were anticipated and precluded by the explicit terms of the Tenth Amendment."

In a word, the President of the United States may not make his own law any more than you or I or Frank Costello can. The place to enact law is the Congress; the man to execute the law is the President. When the President acts by whim because he is in a hurry, he establishes a despotism which the Constitution seeks to avoid.

The theory of "inherent powers" is as dubious as the theory of the "divine right of kings" or the theory that Hitler possessed messianic qualities or that Stalin can make no mistakes. Any theory which is based on whim and wish is antagonistic to the American system of life, where the law should prevail.

This is not a discussion of the steel strike; it is a discussion of the incorrect and dangerous ideas associated with the President's reasons for seizing the steel industry. The basic reason is his assumption of authority on the Preamble to the Constitution. It is false doctrine.

Before the first scrimmage he reminded them, "Kick that ball, boys, and if that's impossible, take the man opposite you out of play. Let's go! Where's the ball?" One of the Texans ejaculated, "Heck, fergit the ball! Let's get started with the game!"

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—The Senate Judiciary Committee can perform a notable service for the American people when it calls Federal Judge James P. McGranery before it to consider his nomination as attorney general of the United States.

Senator Pat McCarran, Nevada Democrat who is chairman of the Judiciary Committee and not notably pro-McGranery, has indicated that the notorious Amerasia case will again be explored.

To begin with, the senator should once and for all gag Judge McGranery, and any Justice Department officials called as witnesses, with the truth concerning the nature of the almost 2,000 government documents stolen by Communists and their playmates who were involved in the Amerasia case.

Judge McGranery, who was assistant to the attorney general in 1945 when the FBI arrested John S. Service and five others, has insisted since that date that the stolen documents were innocuous parcels of disconnected newspaper clippings containing no threat to the nation's security.

James M. McInerney, assistant attorney general in charge of the Criminal Division, Department of Justice, is another law enforcement officer who has maintained that the stolen papers were of mere potage.

During his appearance before the Tydings whitewash investigation of Reds in the State Department, McInerney had this to say:

"I would say that with respect to all of these documents, that they were of innocuous, very innocuous character. If I would estimate that 1 per cent of them related to our national defense, that would be about right. They had to do with very minor political and economical matters in the Far East, and I say that having been chief of the internal security section of the department all during the war, I handled all the espionage cases for the department and those things impressed me as being a little above the level of teenage gossip in the Far East."

McGranery, who was greased into his Federal judgeship by the then Attorney General Tom Clark, was McInerney's boss. He first established the fiction that nothing of importance was stolen from secret government files. In one instance he told a congressional committee:

"I went back to check up to see how we stood with some of the things you gentlemen talked about, principally this bombing paper that seems to be stressed. On the one hand it could be said that it is a very innocuous thing. The paper, itself, is not an original. It seems to have been taken from a number of sources of periodicals, Navy periodicals that perhaps were restricted."

Two of the six arrested in the Amerasia case were freed following light fines. Four others were never taken to court. Throughout the legal proceedings constant references were made to the grand juries and the court that the thievery was petty. It was, in fact, a chorus of belittlement with occasional refrains that filing secret documents from government files was a commonplace practice among Washington newspapermen.

Only once did McGranery change his tune. And that was when a congressman forced him to admit that if a Russian-lover could steal one paper he could steal almost any secret paper. The judge said, "that is the angle that Congress is after," but it was not the angle the Department of Justice was after.

All the six arrested in the Amerasia case had government documents in their possession when the FBI raided their various homes and offices. It took a truck to haul the loot back to the government files where it belonged.

Here is a breakdown of the "innocuous" documents—so labeled by McGranery and McInerney:

Restricted: 119; Confidential: 208; Strictly Confidential: 50; Secret: 133; Very Secret: 1. The remainder were unclassified.

Of the total, 117 dealt with military matters; 438 with political; 119 biographical; 275 publications. The remainder defy classification.

Senator Tydings and his committee joined in labeling the documents innocuous.

Before the judge is confirmed the Senate ought to ask him for another definition of the word. There are all kinds of papers in the Department of Justice marked "secret." And he'll be in charge of them.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

Gerald Maurois, thirty-two, son of Andre Maurois, the French author, is going to write a book. This statement would be of very little interest to us when a year ago he was writing "A Guide to New York."

For the purpose of obtaining material for his guide, Mr. Maurois has spent three months in New York, accompanied by a young secretary with a British accent.

He will stay a little longer and then return to France and get busy.

I have spent more than twenty-five years in and around New York—and I couldn't possibly write a guide to that most remarkable of all cities.

A lot of people say that New York is not representative of America. It isn't, and yet it is so typically American that about everything that is good and bad in our country can be found in New York.

The boxer who beat up actor Robert Preston (in a Broadway farce recently) was knocked out of the ring last week. . . . 10 Years 20 The Once Over

—by C. H. Westbrook

10 Years Ago

Birthday Party—Michael McConnell was given a birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Storm, Bartonville.

Fire—The Sherman Theatre was completely gutted by fire which started in an old barn at the rear of the theatre and causing a loss estimated at $250,000 before Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg firemen got it under control.

School Supt. — Dr. Robert Brown was re-elected district superintendent of Stroudsburg schools. Presiding was Dr. Marshall Metzger, with C. D. Hellock as secretary. Other members attending: Roy M. Houser, A. L. Stackhouse, N. O. Bender and Dr. D. F. Sullivan.

Fishing — 250,000 fishermen in Pennsylvania invaded the mountain streams as trout season opened today.

Laurel Blossom Time — Plans are progressing for Monroe County's second annual celebration of Laurel Blossom Time.

Fishermen — Fishing season opened with a high wind and snow flurries. The 1275 fishermen who carried Monroe licenses didn't have much luck.

Golden Wedding — Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bush, Canadensis, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Tuesday, with members of the family and many friends present. A pretty cake was presented by Mrs. G. I. Bush, Mount Pocono, a great grand daughter.

Wyckoff's — A whole section of The Record was devoted to the 57th Anniversary of Wyckoff's Department Store, with pictures of the late A. B. Wyckoff, Miss Anna M. Wyckoff and E. H. Wyckoff.

He says New York is "undoubtedly the center of business. Certainly there is more money handled in New York than anywhere and consequently attracted there are the best music, best ballet—there is practically nothing in that line that New York hasn't to offer."

Mr. Maurois has observed that there is almost nothing "old" in New York. Everything is new. He went down to Coentis Slip to look at the oldest house in New York. It was gone. In its stead a brand-new post-office had been erected.

"So dynamic!" he exclaimed. The most fascinating thing he found in New York — I suppose you will find it in his guidebook — was a bottling plant "with an enormous machine that produces 400,000 bottles of beer a day."

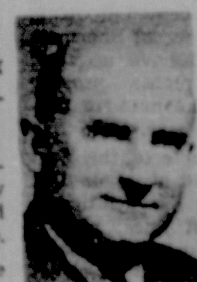

"Are they drinking that much beer in New York?" he asked. Among the customs of our country "the etiquette between men and women" interested him particularly.

He mentioned, among other things "pushing the chair under the woman when she sits down at a table," and the fact that "the American girl waits in front of a door until the man goes around and opens it."

Mr. Maurois has already published another book. It is called "Cooking With a French Touch."

I suppose the new guide book will be called "New York with a French Touch."

We might be able to persuade him to stay another two or three weeks and write a "Guide to America."

That Annual Style Show

The Easter Parade or annual Finery Fiesta and Flashlight Orgy was celebrated with all the traditional silliness, showmanship and love of publicity. A good time was had by all. . . . up to the moment the photographers called it a day. It demonstrated among other things that thousands of adults never grow up, that an annual high-altitude census has become routine business and that the milliners of America are still playing practical jokes. Our Fifth Avenue correspondents covering the event, bruise by bruise, report:

Colonel and Mrs. Z. Jarvis Doopsydoop were a sensational couple in costumes by Abbott & Costello. Mrs. Doopsydoop never looked more haphazardly expensive. The Colonel was impressively uncomfortable. (He knew one of his garters had snapped but couldn't bend over to make repairs without losing face.)

Mrs. Galloway Z. Longhill III, and her two daughters, Uppa and Downa, were out early in $10,000 worth of fresh fabrics and would have done well but for their bonnets, which must have been designed with criminal intent. The dowager evidently still wears a bustle. The two girls will be remembered from the 1951 Easter Parade when they finally attracted a cameraman's attention by standing on their heads in front of Radio City.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubba-Hubba Hostettlers made the grade on sheer fortitude, never giving up until photographed by a newspaperman too tired to care. Mrs. Hostettlers were an expression of anxiety over arsenic and old lace. Her husband was doing all right until he was disqualified for appearing in a pair of last crazy. After wearing a Butch that in "People Will Talk," he let it grow for three long-haired roles that followed in a row. "Grows like a weed," Currie complained. "I'll be glad to cut it off."

If you'd be correct: Jack Palance rhymes his name with "balance" . . . Ann Sheridan, sunning herself on the outdoor set of "Just Across the Street," declared she hasn't gained a gram. I'd asked, cad-like, if she hadn't put on a pound or two . . .

Curries — Betty Hutton says she hated the man who is now her husband when they first met seven months ago. That was on the set of "Somebody Loves Me." Charlie O'Curran was her dance director.

"I hated him; we didn't agree on anything," the blonde sizzler told me soon after their surprise elopement to Las Vegas.

"I'd ask him, 'How'm I doin'?' and he'd say, 'Pretty bad.' That was his sense of humor, which I didn't realize. We started fighting. The more we fought, the more we fell in love."

O'Curran, 37 (to Betty's 31), looks remarkably like Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. He'd been escorting Miss Hutton to various functions, but nobody knew it was that serious.

What about two movie careers in the family?

"I tried the other," Betty said, referring to her previous marriage to Ted Briskin, Chicago camera manufacturer. "I thought I shouldn't be married to anybody in the business."

"But when you're so much in show business, you have to have somebody who understands the problems involved. We might as well face it: show people are different."

"Nobody can say something's going to work. Only God can. All I can say is, Charlie's right for me, and we're going to try." . . . Glimpes of Glimmerville—

Finlay Currie, the 74-year-old Scot, confiding that his yellow locks, worn to his collar for several months now, are driving him

"Why, I never knew you smoked, Charles! That's the tenth pack you've bought!"

Kintner Visits Western Part Of State

Meetings and activities in the Knights of Malta have been very heavy during the past three weeks, involving Grand Commander Clifford R. Kintner in the anniversary and other incidents. The head of the Gran Commandery of Pennsylvania reported improvement in the general condition of the Order during his term of office which is soon to come to a close on May 15. The next Grand Commander is from Pittsburgh and he has pledged himself to continue the good work of rebuilding the Order.

On March 25 the local commandery, St. John's No. 188, presented the following with fifty-year membership certificates: Irvin L. Transeau, Lee S. Kistler, August E. Miller, John G. Johnston, Walter H. Robinson, PGC, I. Walter Edinger, Walter L. Halterman and posthumously to Mrs. Allen Williams for her brother the late George W. Duke. On March 27 Grand Commander Kintner attended the 59th Anniversary of Columbian Commandery No. 132 at Middletown, and presented 20 of their members with fifty-year certificates.

Supreme Commander Dr. Charles J. Higgs of Wilkes-Barre and Grand Recorder Elias J. Sterner of Lancaster were also present and participated in the festivities. The next day Kintner visited Sandilands Commandery No. 152 at York for their special events celebration. The Grand Recorder also attended this meeting and made the principal address. Kintner was entertained during the afternoon by the York City Clerk, Wilbur C. Baker, who is the recorder of the York Commandery. On March 31 he attended the 59th anniversary program of Norman Commandery No. 135 at Lehigh. The Supreme Commander was also in attendance at this meeting and PSC Donald B. Cahoon, a lawyer from Scranton, made the principal address. Movies and refreshments followed this largely attended meeting.

During the balance of the week from April 1 to 5 inclusive, Grand Commander Kintner made the following official visits: Clermont Commandery No. 395 at Derry, Glendale Commandery No. 556 at Johnstown, Holy Grail Commandery No. 384 at Perryopolis, Ivy Commandery No. 358 at Greensburg, Star of the East Commandery No. 461 of Cumberland, Md., and the headquarters at Lancaster. Grand Generalissimo Wilbur A. Mather of Pittsburgh attended the Greensburg, Cumberland and Lancaster meetings.

This week the ultimate Degree of the Red Cross and Sepulchre was exemplified on a class of nineteen by St. James Commandery No. 68 of Allentown, assisted by Norman Commandery No. 135 of Lehigh with Edward Dine-more as Sovereign Commander of the work. Ninety members were in attendance. This degree is worked annually by the Allentown Commandery for the Lehigh Valley Degree Association. Companions were present from all the commanderies in the Lehigh Valley, including Allentown, Lehigh, Lansford, Easton, Bangor, Tatamy, Lancaster, Bethlehem, Reading and Stroudsburg. Grand Commander Kintner and Grand Captain General Peter M. Dear-ringer of Granville made brief addresses of welcome before the degree ceremonial.

Thieves Rob Liquor Store

Chester, AP—Police reported yesterday that thieves chopped a hole in the wall of a Chester State Liquor store and carried away 200 cases of whisky, valued at $15,000.

Detectives Leander Tassoni and Theodore Laws said the thieves entered a warehouse next door to the liquor store through a skylight and then chopped a hole in the wall of the adjoining buildings.

They loaded the whisky on a truck stored in the warehouse and drove away. The first notice of the theft came when the owner of the truck, Ervin Carder, discovered it missing this morning.

Appeals Court Clears Way For Merger

New York, AP—An Appeals Court yesterday reversed a decision blocking a proposed merger of the Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The new ruling left the way open for the proposed merger, which would bring together two Protestant denominations with a total membership of 1,850,000.

Yesterday's four-to-one ruling by the appellate division of the New York State Supreme Court nullified a two-year-old decision by Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink banning the church union.

The higher court declared that "the civil courts do not interfere with ecclesiastical matters in which temporal rights are not involved."

The proposed merger had been attacked by the Cadman Memorial Church, of Brooklyn, and the Cadman Memorial Congregational Society, in a suit against the general council of the Congregational Christian Churches.

The Brooklyn Church charged the merger would deprive individual congregations of "traditional autonomy."

In addition to banning the merger, Justice Steinbrink had restrained the general council from using any congregational funds or properties to advance the proposed consolidation.

The higher court, however, ruled that "ecclesiastical or doctrinal questions may be inquired into only insofar as it may be necessary to do so to determine the civil or property rights of the parties."

It added that the Brooklyn church had failed to "establish any rights or interests to the funds or other assets" which would bring the ecclesiastical question of merger into a civil court's jurisdiction.

The merger, first proposed in 1947, would form the United Church of Christ.

It would embrace the 5,715 Congregational Christian Churches, with more than 1,184,000 members, and the 3,000 Evangelical and Reformed Churches, with a membership of more than 714,000.

The original trial took 23 court days and 3,000 pages of testimony.

213 Killed In Pennsylvania In First Two Months Of Year

Harrisburg, AP—A Pennsylvania Motor Federation Conference was told here yesterday that 213 persons were killed on public highways during the first two months of 1952.

Another 11 persons died in crashes on the Pennsylvania turnpike during that time, said a report delivered for T. Elmer Transeau, director of the State Bureau of Highway Safety.

The report was read to members of the PMF safety committee by R. B. Maxwell, Harrisburg, secretary-manager of the PMF, in the absence of Transeau.

Transeau's report said that deaths for the first two months of last year were higher with 241 on State highways and 16 on the State's toll road.

In another address Ivan J. Stehman, chief of highway safety education for the State Department of Public Instruction, predicted that the "number of high schools in Pennsylvania offering courses in driver training will double its present total of 285 when the Fall term begins."

Ten Perish In Patrol Plane Crash

Brunswick, Me., AP—Five of the ten-member crew perished yesterday in the flaming wreckage of a crippled patrol plane that crashed in a mist in woods at the edge of the U. S. naval air station here.

The other five were injured, one critically burned. They were carried from the burning two-engined P2V Ventura by rescue forces which were delayed by the rough terrain from reaching the scene.

Names of the injured and dead were not released immediately.

The plane's tail section was ripped off by the crash. The fire fed on 1,200 gallons of gasoline.

The plane, returning from a training mission, had one dead engine as it tried to land on a new runway. The plane was attached to patrol squadron 26.

Commander J. D. Ifft said it swooped below the overcast in instrument flying weather.

It came in to one side of the runway and was making a second approach when, Ifft said, "something else went wrong" and the ship hit the trees.

"Probably the second engine was cutting out," Ifft said.

Glen Alden Likely To Cut Coal Price

Reduction to be Large, According to Reports

Reports were in circulation today that the Glen Alden Coal Co., world's largest producer of anthracite, will announce one of the largest reduction in coal prices in years on Monday.

The reduction, for four popular sizes, pea, chestnut, stove and egg, will amount to $1.10 a ton for each size.

Reflecting the slack market for fuel with the arrival of warmer weather, the lower prices will be effective immediately, although the Glen Alden is expected to warn its customers that there are possibilities that the prices will be restored to pre-reduction levels during the Summer months.

It was reported that the $1.10 per ton reduction for pea, chestnut, stove and egg coal is the biggest single price reduction authorized by any company in many years.

The Glen Alden Coal Co. price cut followed an announcement 10 days ago by the Hudson Coal Co. that its prices for the various sizes were being reduced, although on a smaller ration than the cut being made by Glen Alden. The Hudson Coal reduction for pea coal was $1 a ton. There were slightly smaller reductions for other domestic sizes.

The above clipping from The Scranton Times, Saturday, April 12, 1952

We have not received new prices from any of our shippers, but believe new prices will become effective the early part of this week.

It delivers 180 horsepower... without requiring you to buy premium gasoline. It runs with less waste, less heat, less friction and less wear than previous designs can.

equal. Its combustion is so clean it literally develops almost no carbon deposit at all.

It will last longer than any engine you've ever known. It will cost you less along the way. It will stay "young" in performance thousands of miles past the point where an ordinary engine shows old age.

And on top of all that, it makes driving a lot more pleasure! Its smooth response... its safety-power, in reserve for emergencies... its easy scorn for distance or hills... make you just plain feel good at the wheel as you've never felt before.

Mata and Hari

Mata, Hari Had Earlier Triumph Here

The local scene should be no surprise to Mata and Hari, dance artists, who will present a program of danced theatre here at the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium on Wednesday night as the fourth in a series of Community Concerts.

One of their earliest engagements after establishing themselves as a dance team in this country was a four-week engagement as guest dancers at Camp Tannin above Bushkill, where young Danny Kaye was on his way up as a comedian and where his wife, Sylvia Fine, who writes most of Danny's material, became so interested in the young dance team that she composed the music for the "Hindu Fakir" number.

Their appearance at Camp Tannin was also responsible for their engagement for their first Broadway show, "Straw Hat Revue". They now devote about six months a year to their national tours. The rest of the time they divide between television and personal appearances.

Natives of Switzerland, their real names are Meta Krahn and Paul Ehrlich, and they came to this country with a European troupe of dancers. They have adapted their background of classic training the dance form to their own hilarious and highly individual art in which they satirize a succession of institutions including Carnegie Hall, a sports newsreel, the ballet and the temp of life along 42nd St. in New York.

The concert will begin at 8:30, and is open only to Community Concert subscribers.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Everybody who yesterday afternoon said "Why couldn't we have this weather for Easter" could eat their words last night. April is living up to her reputation for fickleness.

And quite likely to lose her fondest admirers—when the fishermen find out what she has in store for them at the crack of dawn this morning—and the baseball fans find out what she's got up her sleeve for this afternoon—and the school children see what she does to the last day of vacation.

Still think the school authorities were smart, though, not to schedule the first day of school for the first day of fishing season. Let them get cold and wet enough and maybe they'll be willing to wait for a warm bright weekend.

Though fishermen—even small ones—seem impervious to the weather. And I should add, even fishermen, with a tip of the hat to Betty Schell and Mayne McNeal and—and—don't tell me that's all I know about.

Mostly, though, the women are going to be so busy with meetings these next few days that they're not even going to notice the weather except as it gives those spanking new Easter outfits that comfortable, lived-in look that they usually don't acquire until well after May day.

Stroudsburg Woman's Club Hears Watt On Wills

The importance of making a will was stressed yesterday afternoon in the talk given by John Watt, trust officer of the Stroudsburg Security Trust Co., in his talk on "A Woman and Her Money" at the meeting of the Stroudsburg Woman's Club at the Stroud Community House.

"A will is the only way in which a person can distribute the property accumulated in his lifetime, and its preparation should be a most careful one, never to be undertaken without legal advice," he said.

He outlined certain basic principles which should be taken into consideration in making a will. Persons who die without leaving a will are doing those nearest them an injustice, he pointed out, with the state, in effect, making a will for him, determining the proportion each shall receive, appointing a manager who must be bonded at the expense of the estate, and appointing a guardian for minor children.

Certain common errors which may prove costly, he pointed out, are wills which attempt to assign property in its entirety without providing for taxes and the fact of its diminishing by death; of giving specific sums rather than portions of the estate; of inserting bequests impossible to carry out; of assuming that joint ownership of property takes the place of a will.

He explained the various types of trusts which a person could set up to insure not only that the estate be distributed according to his wishes, but also that it be administered as efficiently and economically as possible. He outlined living trusts, agency accounts; testamentary trusts and life insurance trusts.

His talk followed the musical portion of the program presented by Mrs. Burton George and Mrs. Francis Meredith, who sang three duets, an aria from "The Marriage of Figaro," "Ye Banks and Braes" by Burns, and selections from "Carousell" with Mrs. Kenneth Lewis as their accompanist. Mrs. Parks Kunkle introduced Mr. Watt and Mrs. William Levering the musicians.

Mrs. George T. Robinson presided at the business meeting when tribute was paid to the memory of Mrs. A. T. Shian, a longtime and faithful member of the club.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Never saw Rachel Arnold of our infants' and children's department look quite so happy as this past Saturday when an Easter orchid arrived from her son, Bob, who is serving with the Navy on the west coast. . . . The lending library at Wyckoff's is one of the store's busiest departments. There are seventy-five different books in circulation now, with the latest addition being "Polk's 'Diary of a President.'" James Hilton, John H. Wilson, Jessamyn West, and Erich Maria Remarque are just a few of the widely read authors represented.

An inexpensive way to keep up with choice, current literature, the lending library permits its customers to keep a book three days for ten cents. . . . Seems to me that men's ties are handsomer and bolder than ever before. Beau Brummell offers a dazzling array in which polka dots, geometric patterns, and variations of the fleur de lis compete for attention. Fabrics and colors are richer too, leaving more women envious and "tongue tied". . . . What nice things money can buy! That stunning new Royal-Hager pottery, for instance, in towering lamps, console sets that combine candle-holders and bowl in one graceful unit, huge ash trays deep enough to double as bowls, planters, and cornucopias that would be perfect with flowers now, or with fruit later, on a Thanksgiving table. Unusual household accessories such as these can always start me singing the "Buy, Buy Blues". . . . After months of looking in vain, I found the perfect raincoat at Wyckoff's the other day. It was just what I wanted, and I decided that it would be mine come pay day. Yesterday it has disappeared from the rack—a painful way to learn that other people like the same thing, and merchandise won't hang around forever awaiting one person's decision. . . . "Aunt Annie" Bonser, that skilled queen of the skillet who conducts our employees' cafeteria, is in a springtime mood these days. Her son, Ora, is recuperating at home, following an operation. . . . In my personal opinion, there's nothing daintier than hobnail glass, and particularly the square trays that hold sugar, creamer, salt and pepper shakers all in light blue. Hobnail in rose is a bright addition to the household scene also. What's nicer than looking at the world through rose colored glasses?

Brock's Latest Book To Be Published

By Leonard Randolph

BLOOD, OIL AND SAND by Ray Brock, 156 pp. Published today by World Publishing Co., New York.

One of the hottest political spots in the world today is the Middle East, comprising Iran, Iraq, Israel, Syria, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia in part.

As is usually the case in the existence of such "dynamite" areas the truth is too often made a two-headed coin. This works wonders for all parties interested in the economy and political tenor of the nations involved. The British, for example, may interpret an issue as being favorable to their demands, while the French, Russians or Americans may treat the same issue as equally favorable to their own purposes.

Ray Brock's "Blood, Oil and Sand" arrives at a time when the Middle East situation appears to outside observers to be at its mildest in the past two years. Mr. Brock, however, would be the first to point out that outside appearances are deceptive.

This deception, and others, occupy most of the space in his current volume. The author, a well-known foreign correspondent and radio commentator (for the New York Times and the American Broadcasting System, among others), has spent nearly 15 years in the Middle East. His observations have appeared in newspapers throughout the U.S. "Sand" is made up almost entirely of a compilation of those articles which have previously been published and broadcast, with supplementary remarks by the author.

The most alarming thing about this book is Mr. Brock's contention that the world is teetering on the brink of world war three. The author devotes much space to substantiating this view, which, he attempts to prove, is very nearly a foregone conclusion. Sandwiched between the political prophecies, Brock includes a summary glance of the past histories of most of the Middle Eastern nations.

Running through the book there is a thread of sympathy for the nations involved which lifts "Blood, Oil and Sand" a couple of cuts above the usual analysis of politics. Brock knows the people about whom he is writing. He also has come out of those 15 years as a correspondent with strong likes and dislikes which he does not hesitate to include. This results in harshness in dealing with some nations.

Brock's opinions lend a definite color to the book which might otherwise make it offensive. The writing, however, is good enough to overcome personal bias and prejudice and although there are many flat statements which might have been better documented, the author speeds on to other issues so fast that the reader has little time to object.

The author is well-known in this area. At one time Brock was associated with the Pocono Mountain Horse Show. He worked in Scranton and in this entire region for about six months.

"Blood, Oil and Sand" is a valuable book in that it presents one man's experiences in the politically troubled smaller nations of the world. The portrait of a foreign correspondent at work is one of the best to come out of the post-war period.

President Judge Dies

Eric (A) — The President Judge of Erie County's Orphan's Court, J. Orin Waite, 80, died yesterday. Waite became ill several days ago after returning from a month's vacation trip in the south. He was a prominent Republican, masonic and civic leader and author.

CARRYING BASKETS and paper bags the children shown assembled here at East Stroudsburg Playground are upholding a tradition, believe it or not. They're about ready to take off on an Easter egg hunt. ## Records Broken In Celebration Of Easter Services At St. John's Lutheran Church

The festival of the Lord's Resurrection was fittingly observed in St. John's Lutheran Church with large congregations in attendance at all services. Records were broken in every field. Six hundred members availed themselves of the opportunity to receive the Sacrament of Holy Communion at the several services at which time it was administered. At the Sunrise-Matin service at 6:15 a. m. a large congregation listened to a fine exposition of the Resurrection theme by the Rev. R. W. Goucker, S. T. M., superintendent of the ecclesiastical department of the United Lutheran Church in America. At this service several fine anthems were presented by the senior and chancel choirs of St. John's under the direction of Robert H. Cathcart, organist and choirmaster. The church school at 9:45 a. m. had an attendance of 219.

The service and Holy Communion at 10:45 a. m. found the sanctuary crowded, requiring chairs to accommodate the throng who had come to worship. The Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlsein preached the Festival sermon and administered Holy Communion, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Goucker. At this service the group of young people who had been received by the Rite of Confirmation on Palm Sunday received the first communion in a body. Special music was likewise a feature at this service with Mrs. Frederick Diekmann of Brooklyn, N. Y., singing "I know that my Redeemer Liveth" by Handel. Her daughter Miss Louise presided at the organ for the prelude.

The senior choir sang "O Morn of Beauty" by Silbells. The special offering of Lenten denial banks was consecrated at this service, which total eight hundred dollars, with more to be heard from. These funds will be used to help support the work of Lutheran World Action, which provides spiritual aids to the boys in the armed forces of our nation and to bring relief to Lutherans in Europe, Africa and Korea. The total receipts, including substantial sums for the eighty-fifth anniversary repair fund, exceeded all former offerings for the day.

At three p. m. the pastor administered the Sacrament of Infant Baptism to the following children: Christina Anne Nunn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Nunn with the parents serving as sponsors; Eugene Howard Hagerty, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ottmar F. Hagerty with paternal grandfather and grand uncle, Eugene Hagerty and Millard Hagerty serving as sponsors; Sue Haney daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Haney with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reichel serving as sponsors; Linda Kay Masten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Masten with the mother serving as sponsor; Mary Alice Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Smith with grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffert of Easton, serving as sponsors; Sarah Ann Frantz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Frantz with Mrs. Horace Frantz and mother serving as sponsors; Frederick Layton Frantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Frantz with paternal grandfather Horace Frantz serving as sponsor; and Ravenna

Faith Lobdell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Lobdell, with Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Kelper serving as sponsors.

In the evening at 7 p. m. the church school and congregation united in an Easter Festival service with the singing of Easter carols and the showing of the sound picture "The First Easter" which was well received.

Last evening a reception was tendered to the 47 new members that have been received into membership during the past year. Alfred Munson was master of ceremonies and greetings were extended by A. F. Everitt for the Vestry and congregation, the pastor and the officers of other groups. The members of the Luther League presented a very clever minstrel arrangement to the delight of all. A social hour followed at which time refresh-

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

According to reports reaching this typewriter, the University of Syracuse gives only two baseball scholarships a year, and one is waiting for Ray Steele, East Stroudsburg High athletic great, if he desires to get his college education at Syracuse. Marty Baldwin, well known local sportsman, has made all arrangements for the scholarship and all is needed at present is the nod of Steele's head.

Speaking of Baldwin brings to mind the fact that he, through the cooperation of the Scranton entry in the class "A" Eastern League, will make movies of the 1951 World Series available at tomorrow's meeting of the Junior American Legion baseball team at the George N. Kemp Post, at 7:30 p. m. The same movies will be shown at Stroudsburg High School at 1:30 p. m.

John Schoonover, popular pilot of Pocono A. C., will celebrate birthday number 35 today. The old boy still has plenty of life in his arm and legs—but wouldn't it be nice if he could only hit? Pocono A. C. and Monroe County's entry in the Blue Mountain League, will practice at Gordon Giffels field at 8 p. m. each day this week. The club had 15 candidates on hand for last night's drill. There will be several new faces on the club this coming season.

Frank Belli, one of the top baseball players in the history of the sport at Pocono High School and a former top campaigner in the Pocono Mountains League, has turned out to be an equally as good golfer. Both Belli and Schoonover are employed at Line Material, with the former scheduled to miss his regular Wednesday morning golf match because of the opening of fishing season today. The veteran ball hawk needs more than one day to wade the local streams.

Norman Larker, first baseman with Hazleton, of the North Atlantic League, in 1950, is now holding down a similar position with Mobile, of the Southern Association. Marv Jones, former Carbondale, also of the NAL, receiver, failed in his bid to land a catching berth with Scranton, but will probably be seen in action with York, of the class "B" Inter-State League, during the coming campaign. George Heller, former Carbondale hurler, is still a member of the Minneapolis Millers, of the American Association, a triple-A circuit.

Harry Schaeffer, former outstanding pitcher in Monroe County and surrounding area, was a roommate of Gil McDougald's at Beaumont, Tex., of the class "AA" Texas League, two years ago, and now both are teammates on the New York Yankees. Al Gardella, former Bangor and Peekskill manager, in the North Atlantic League, suffered his poorest year in organized baseball last season, when he batted only .219 for Wilmington, of the Inter-State League, during the portion of the campaign he spent with the Philadelphia Phillies' farm.

Stan Pawloski, third baseman for the Stroudsburg Poconos in 1949, is scheduled to play second base for the New Reading entry in the class "A" Eastern League this season. Kirby Farrell is slated to pilot Reading, after leading Cedar Rapids, Ia., to third place in the Three-I League last season. Pawloski divided his time between third and second base at Cedar Rapids last season. Tex Dargiewicz, outfielder with Berwick, also of the NAL, in 1950, is battling for a similar position on the same Reading club at the present time.

Carter Signs To Risk Title Against Salas For Second Time

Los Angeles, (AP)—Jimmy Carter of New York has signed to defend his world's lightweight boxing title again against Lauro Salas in a 15-round fight here May 14, promoter Cal Eaton announced yesterday.

The two staged a slam bang battle here April 1 with Carter winning a unanimous decision but going down for a three-count in the fifteenth round. Many of the fans thought Salas should have won and he was carried from the ring on the shoulders of his admirers.

Red Sox Purchase Parts Of Rookies

Boston, (AP)—The Boston Red Sox announced yesterday the contracts of Faye Thronberry, Ted Lepcio, Dick Gernert and Len Okrie have been purchased from the Louisville club of the American Association.

Thronberry is scheduled to start in right field against the Washington Senators in today's opening day game and Lepcio will play second base.

Reserves
Gernert is a first baseman and Okrie a catcher.

The Sox said also that pitcher Dick Brodowski had been bought from San Jose and will go to Louisville, and that outfielder Gene Stephens was brought from the Albany club of the Eastern League.

Hart Captures Tennis Crown

Johannesburg, South Africa, (AP)—Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., won the South African Women's Tennis Championship yesterday by defeating Mrs. Julia Wippler of Johannesburg, 6-1, 7-5.

Limit
The Wimbledon champion raced through the first set in 12 minutes but suffered a setback in the second. Miss Hart was forced to the fullest to pull out the deuced set.

Tigers Buy Bright Prospect

Detroit, (AP)—The Detroit Tigers yesterday bought the contract of lefthanded pitcher Billy Hoelt, who once struck out 27 batters in a perfect no-hit high school game, from their Buffalo farm club.

Returns
Hoelt went to Spring training with the Tigers. He won nine and lost 14 to Toledo last year. The Tigers also returned rookie pitcher Paul Foytack to Buffalo, which held his contract while Foytack tried out with the Tigers. That cut the squad to 29.

Turner Stops Varona In Seventh Round

Philadelphia, (AP)—Gil Turner, Philadelphia's unbeaten welterweight, scored a seventh-round technical knockout last night over Chico Varona of Havana when the Cuban refused to come out of his corner, complaining vehemently of being sick in the stomach from "17 low blows." Turner weighed 145½ and Varona 143¼ for the scheduled ten-rounder at The Arena.

Turner, number one ranking challenger for "Kid" Gavilan's welterweight crown, gained his thirty-first straight victory and twenty-fifth kayo.

Close Call
However, the 21-year-old Philadelphia Negro came closer to defeat last night than at any time in his amateur or professional career. The crowd of 5,644—which paid $17,503.82—came screaming to its feet in the third round when the smallish Cuban smashed a vicious right that sent Turner reeling to the ropes and almost to the canvas.

Turner bounded off, staggered momentarily and then fell into a clinch. Varona tried desperately for the kill, but Turner—seemingly fighting on instinct—managed to regain his wits and finished the round by belting Varona almost through the ropes with a slashing left hook to the body.

Turner's handlers worked furiously on their fighter between rounds and he came back strong to regain the upper hand in the fourth round. He abandoned his usual flailing attack inside and beat Varona off with a left jab.

Varona's handlers continuously shouted from their corner to referee Jack Clayton protesting what they claimed were low blows. In fact, Clayton took away the fifth round from Turner for hitting low. In round six, Turner went back to his windmill punching attack and smashed the retreating Varona around the ring almost at will.

Varona seemed to have lost his earlier eagerness for battle and several times winced in pain as Turner blasted his body with pulverizing right and left blows.

Nothing appeared to be wrong with the Cuban as he went to his corner after the sixth round, but when the bell rang, he remained seated in his corner. Dr. Joseph Bartone, ringside physician, leaped into the ring to see what the trouble was. He told the referee that Varona said he was sick at the stomach and refused to go on.

John "Ox" DaGrosa, Pennsylvania Athletic Commissioner, said he was holding up Varona's purse and a hearing would be held today in the commission office here.

Slade Halts Lester

New York, (AP)—Although outweighted by 34½ pounds, Jimmy Slade, 180, New York knocked out Charley Lester, 214½, Detroit, in the sixth of the main bout scheduled for eight rounds at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

Toronto General Manager Quits

Toronto, (AP)—Mike Murphy resigned yesterday as general manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club.

The surprise announcement was made with the opening game of the International League season only two days away.

Announcement
Murphy's resignation, effective immediately, was revealed in a joint announcement by Murphy and Jack Kent Cooke, team president.

Frank Pollock of Toronto, formerly concessions manager and associated with the team for 14 years, has been named the new general manager.

Detroit To Play Before Largest Crowd

New York, (AP)—Brooklyn and Cleveland, both beaten in the stretch run last fall, are the pennant favorites as the major leagues head into today's opening day program.

Some 250,000 fans are expected to turn out for the opener if the weatherman gives the clubs a break. Detroit's sellout throng of 52,954 undoubtedly will be tops.

Although the memory of Bobby Thomson's pennant-clinching home run still is green in the Polo Grounds, the New York Giants find themselves second choice to the Dodgers. In an unofficial rundown, the morning line shows the Ebrooks eight to five and the Giants five to two.

Departed
Such familiar names as Monte Irvin, Don Newcombe, "Hoot" Evers, Bobby Doerr and Joe DiMaggio will be missing from the box scores for reasons ranging from injuries to the Army draft and retirement.

Leo Durocher will shoot his best—Sal Maglie (23-6)—against the Phillies' number one—Robin Roberts (21-15) when they raise the National League pennant before 35,000 at the Polo Grounds.

Bob Elliott, the ex-Boston Brave, will replace the injured Irvin in left and Davey Williams, a kid from Minneapolis, takes Eddie Stanky's place at second base in the Giant order.

Catcher Smokey Burgess and second baseman Connie Ryan, both acquired in a December trade with Cincinnati, give the Phils two new starters.

Brooklyn's favored Dodgers will field the same club that lost the flag last October 3 with Preacher Roe (22-3) doing the pitching against Boston's rookies at Braves Field.

Second baseman Billy Reed, third baseman Ed Mathews and shortstop Jack Cusick will be newcomers in the Braves lineup behind Warren Spahn (22-14) as Manager Tommy Holmes attempts to carry out his "new faces" policy.

Like Brooklyn, Cleveland will count on virtually the same team that missed last year to do the job on a second try. Rookie Jim Fridge in left field will be the only important change in the Indians' lineup when Early Wynn (20-13) faces Chicago's Billy Pierce (15-14) at Comiskey Park.

Promise

Manager Phil Richards, who promises his Go-Go Sox will kick up "more fun" in the league, will use only one rookie—third baseman Hector Rodriguez from Montreal.

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel sends Vic Raschi (21-10) against the Philadelphia A's, a team he has beaten 20 of 22 starts. His opponent at Shibe Park will be left-handed Alex Kellner (11-14). The A's count on veterans to continue their September spurt of last year.

At Washington, Boston's Mel Parnell (18-11) will face Bob Porterfield (9-8), the ex-Yank. Lou Boudreau, new Boston manager, experimented with youngsters all spring and still has a flock on his roster but is going with his slugging vets.

The National will have one night opener at St. Louis where 30,000 are due to see Eddie Stanky make his managerial debut against Pittsburgh's rebuilt Pirates. Stanky finally decided on Gerry Staley (19-13) to oppose Murry Dickson (20-16).

Cincinnati's customary sellout opener at Crosley Field will find Herm Wehmeier (7-10) getting the call over Ewell Blackwell to pitch against Chicago's Paul Minner (6-17). The Reds will have newcomers Bob Borkowski and Andy Seminick in the lineup.

Young Track Sensation Seeks Olympic Berth

New York, (AP)—Boyish Ollie Sax, quarter-mile sensation of the indoor track meets, will try to prove his Olympic potentialities on cinders Saturday in a special 400-meter race of the Seton Hall Relays.

Four world record holders and a full dozen national champions are scheduled to show their wares in the east's outdoor track inaugural, but all eyes will be on the crew-cut kid from Penn State who ran the legs off the world's best during the winter season.

Sax, just 20 and not long out of Kearny, N. J., high school, will face a star-spangled field in the 400 at Newark, N. J., including the world quarter-mile record holder Herb McKinley of Jamaica.

Big Chance

If he can achieve outdoors what he did on three occasions last winter on boards, young Sax will stamp himself as Uncle Sam's number one 400-meter hope in the Olympic games at Helsinki.

Besides McKinley, the New Jersey youngster must face in the 400: Reggie Pearson, former National AAU 800 meter champ; Hugo Malocco, National AAU 600 meter winner in 1950 and 1951; John Nelson and Harry Bright, a pair of hopes from the New York Pioneer Club.

But Sax mainly is concerned about McKinley, the flying Jamaican.

Asked at a New York track writers' luncheon yesterday what sort of tactics are needed to beat McKinley in the 400, Sax replied blandly:

"You've got to run the first half of the race as fast as you can and then sprint the last half."

Chicago Hurler Fails Physical

Detroit, (AP)—Pitcher Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox reported here for armed forces induction yesterday but was turned down for medical reasons.

Opening Hurler

Pierce, who won 15 games last year, is scheduled to pitch Chicago's opening game today against the Cleveland Indians.

A spokesman at the local Ft. Wayne Induction Center declined to specify the exact reason Pierce was turned down. Pierce, who lives in suburban Highland Park, passed his pre-induction physical.

Douglas Wins Greensboro Open Crown

Greensboro, N. C. (AP)—Dave Douglas, Newark, Del., professional, won the $10,000 Greensboro Open Golf Tournament by a stroke yesterday with an assist from the rule book.

Douglas finished with 69 for 277, a stroke ahead of Bobby Locke of South Africa. Sam Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., lost a chance to tie for first place when he assessed a two-stroke penalty for a rules violation. He dropped to a third place tie at 279 with Ed Oliver, Lemont, Ill., and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco.

Frank Caywood, PGA tournament supervisor, acting under the rules, charged Snead with two strokes for dropping his ball closer to the hole out of a lateral water hazard on the short seventeenth. Snead actually played the hole in five strokes, including one for dropping the ball, but the added penalty gave him a seven, four over par, and cost him his chance to win the tournament a fifth time.

Wall Penalty

Caywood also had to make a ruling that cost Art Wall Jr., Honesdale, Pa., the 54-hole leader, a stroke on the twelfth hole. That dropped him into sixth place at 280. On the par fourth twelfth hole, Wall's tee shot landed near a bridge on the fairway and under the rules he dropped the ball. In so doing, however, he violated a rule by putting spin on the ball in order to get a better lie and was charged an extra stroke for improperly dropping the ball.

Douglas pocketed first money of $2,000 with his seven-under-par total compiled on rounds of 73-64-71-69. His 64 on Saturday set a record for the par-71, 6,630-yard Starmount Forest Country course.

The Snead next-to-last hole incident completely overshadowed other developments. The rule invoked is a new one and apparently "The Slammer" was not aware of the 1952 change. He admitted on the eighteenth green after finishing the round that the ball had been dropped closer to the hole, but said that he had played it the same in other years without penalty.

It was the second major rules ruckus involving the masters champion within a month. In Jacksonville, Fla., last month he figured in an incident centered about a questioned out of bounds drive on his second round. Without a penalty, he finished the 72 holes tied with Doug Ford, but Snead declined a playoff in view of the controversy and forfeited first money to Ford.

The 34-year-old Douglas, a six feet, three inch, 165-pounder pushed his earnings this year to $3,898 with yesterday's pickup. Last year he was the twenty-eighth man on the list with $5,900. His last big win came in the 1949 Texas Open.

Hoderlein Lost To White Sox

Chicago, (AP)—Infielder Mel Hoderlein has been placed on the Chicago White Sox disabled list, general manager Frank Lane announced yesterday.

Hoderlein is recuperating from treatment of a blood clot which developed behind his right knee when he was struck by a batted ball in spring practice.

He will be out of action for at least 30 days.

Block-Busting Brawl Looms In Robinson-Graziano Ring Clash

By Jerry Liska

Chicago, (AP)—A brutal, block-busting brawl looms in tomorrow night's middleweight title bout between champion Sugar Ray Robinson and challenger "Rocky" Graziano, but nobody will get hurt financially.

Interest is so intense in the meeting of these two knockout specialists that a sell-out crowd of more than 19,000 may jam Chicago Stadium.

A capacity mob would produce a $261,000 gross gate and a net gate of $201,702. In addition, there is an $80,000 TV-radio windfall.

On this basis, Robinson's 30 per cent slice would be around $84,000 from both gate and TV-radio. Graziano, trying to recapture the 160-pound crown he held four years ago, would receive about $70,000 on his 25 per cent share. It also would mark the biggest gate yet for the sponsoring International Boxing Club.

Truman In Final Pitching Role

By Arthur Edson

Washington, (AP)—Harry S. Truman, the only ambidextrous pitcher working in the major league, today makes what probably will be his last presidential pitch.

For the seventh year in a row Mr. Truman will be opening the baseball season here. This time his toss will send the Boston Red Sox and the Washington Senators away on the 1952 season.

A crowd of 30,000 is expected.

Long Time

Since the President has said he won't run again, this presumably will be the last time he presides over a ceremony that began back on April 14, 1910.

A big husky gentleman who once played amateur baseball in Cincinnati threw out the ball that day. And what William Howard Taft began, every president since has more or less faithfully followed.

None has been more faithful than Truman.

Only Franklin D. Roosevelt attended more openers, eight. But he also sent out a substitute four times: Former Vice President John Garner, Paul McNutt and former Vice President Henry Wallace (twice).

Irvin Placed On Disabled List

New York, (AP)—Outfielder Monte Irvin, lost to the New York Giants until mid-season because of an ankle fracture, yesterday was placed on the club's disabled list. He can be reinstated to the active list any time after 30 days.

Option

The Giants also announced the option of pitcher Jake Schmitt to their Minneapolis farm club of the American League. Schmitt, acquired from the Philadelphia Phillies in a deal for Jack Lohrke last winter, is recuperating from a mild attack of scarlet fever. He will remain with the Giants for a few days, pitching batting practice, and will be given a thorough medical check before he actually joins Minneapolis.

Schmitt, a lefthander, had a 10-14 record at Baltimore in '51.

Phillies Give Simmons Raise In Salary On Basis Of Mound Work Before Entering Army

Philadelphia, Pa. — Curt Simmons got a raise yesterday for a job well done two years ago.

The 22-year-old left hander signed his 1952 contract with the Philadelphia Phillies for an undisclosed amount. Club president Bob Carpenter declined to reveal the terms of the contract but admitted it was "more than Curt got for winning 17 games in 1950."

Simmons, who was discharged from the army last week after serving in Germany with the 28th Infantry Division, already is working out his valuable left arm. He pitched for more than an hour yesterday and then did some running at Shibe Park.

"I was throwing that ball real hard," said Simmons after signing his contract in Carpenter's office. "I even broke off a few curves. I felt real good although my legs still are a little stiff. It will take me a few weeks at least before I can even think of throwing in relief."

Simmons, who left the Phillies for active duty with the Pennsylvania National Guard division in September, 1950, said he hadn't really had a chance to talk with Manager Eddie Sawyer since he returned to Philadelphia Saturday.

Busy

"I've been so busy with radio and television appearances and newspaper interviews, I really haven't had a chance to talk with the Skipper. I don't know what he has in mind for me," said Curt.

Sawyer, in a speech earlier yesterday before a junior chamber of commerce luncheon honoring both the Phillies and the Philadelphia Athletics, said he had had a chance only to say "hello" to his star left-hander.

Simmons had so many pressing engagements that he couldn't workout with his teammates. He went through his paces with the Athletics in a morning workout. The rest of the Phillies ran through drills in an afternoon session. Simmons said Joe Astor of the A's did his catching.

As a result of his new contract, Simmons finds himself in the company of pitcher Robin Roberts and outfielder Richie Ashburn—the only Phillies working for more money this year than their last contract called for.

Almost all of the pennant winning Phillies in 1950 got sizeable increases in 1951. When the team finished fifth last year, almost all of them received pay cuts. A few managed to hold on to their 1951 pay, with only Roberts and Ashburn meriting increases.

Simmons was reported to have received $15,000 in 1950. The only publicly known detail about this year's contract is that it calls for more than the $140 a month he was getting from Uncle Sam as a sergeant.

Dewey Gives Christenberry Wider Power

Albany, N. Y. (AP) — Boxing boss Bob Christenberry was given irrevocable controls over the fight game in New York yesterday under terms of a bill approved by Governor Dewey.

The measure gives the chairman of the State Athletic Commission power to purge "the criminal scum" from boxing to adopt and enforce new safety regulations to reduce ring fatalities and injuries, and to give boxing fans better breaks.

Pay Hike

Dewey signed another bill increasing Christenberry's salary from $7,500 to $12,000 a year. It also raises the pay of the other two members of the commission from $25 to $50 a day for each day they attend meetings. They are Dr. Chlan Powell of New York City and Leon F. Swears of Johnstown.

The main measure, giving Christenberry and the commission board new powers, virtually rewrites the 1920 Walker Law, which legalized boxing in New York State.

A's Option Coleman

Philadelphia, Pa. — The Philadelphia Athletics yesterday optioned veteran pitcher Joe Coleman to their Ottawa farm club of the International League, and rookie Tom Hamilton to Savannah, Ga., of the class "A" Sally League.

Sore Arm

Coleman, rated among the American League's better right-handers a few seasons ago, is subject to a 24-hour recall in the hope that he can work the kinks out of his sore arm. Joe won 14 and lost 13 in 1948, his best season, had a 13-14 record in 1949. In 1950 he failed to win a game while losing five, and last year won one, lost six. His spring training work has not been impressive.

Hamilton, who was with the A's through spring training, found the first base competition too tough with Ferris Fain, leading hitter in the league last year, in top shape again for the new season. Savannah also is in the A's farm system.

Bowling Banquet

Bartonsville — An annual banquet of the Pocono Bowling League will take place here at the Bartonsville Hotel tonight to day, at 7 p.m. Team and individual prizes will be awarded. Dancing begins at 9 p.m.

Judge Rules Against Liberty

Chicago, Ill. — The Federal court refused yesterday to force major league baseball clubs to let Liberty Broadcasting Co., Dallas, Tex., broadcast its "game-of-the-day."

Judge John P. Barnes denied a request by Liberty's lawyer for a temporary order directing 13 of the big league clubs and the Western Union Telegraph Co., to make their games available for broadcast.

Judge Barnes declared he is not satisfied that the clubs and the wire company entered "into an illegal conspiracy." He added that in his opinion the clubs have a right to restrict the rights of persons attending games and that they also had the right to profit derived from games, either directly or indirectly.

Yesterday's decision on the temporary order was part of the network's suit for 12 million dollars damages from the 13 clubs, presidents of the American and National Leagues and their commissioner. No hearing date has been set for the suit.

The suit names all the major league teams except the Chicago White Sox, Brooklyn and Cincinnati.

Burglary Suspects Subdued By State Police After Gun Play

Shot Tears Through Side Of Automobile

Two fast-acting State troopers wrenched a gun from a suspected burglar in Stroudsburg yesterday after he shot at them from the back seat of a police squad car.

The fight took place in a side street off Ninth and Monroe Sts., about 3:50 p.m. Although some residents heard the report, they were unaware of what was happening.

With a .32 automatic pistol pointed at his back, red-headed Pfc. Ed. Beneski of the Stroudsburg substation ignored orders to "keep driving through town."

Instead he pulled the car off the highway, stopped it and swung around to grab for the gunman's pistol.

Cpl. Carson Overgard of the Mount Pocono substation, seated next to Beneski, had already yanked out his own gun.

In the brief, fast action which followed, the prisoner managed to fire one shot. The slug ripped through the steel body of the car and emerged through the left rear fender.

Then Beneski's hand clamped over the receiver of the automatic. The flesh of his thumb caught in the action and jammed the gun, preventing it from firing again.

At the same time the prisoner was knocked cold with a blow from a State police gun barrel.

The troopers took both prisoners on into the Stroudsburg substation. Dr. John P. Lim, 805 Main St., was called to give the groggy prisoner treatment.

After receiving aid, the man was taken to the General Hospital in East Stroudsburg by Beneski and Pfc. Alex G. Kern.

At the hospital, a gash in the prisoner's scalp was closed with 16 stitches. His head was swathed in bandage.

In the meantime, Overgard remained at the substation. The other prisoner, whose name was given as Reginald Albert Cope, of Portland, RD2, Tenn., remained handcuffed to a chair at the substation.

He and his companion, whose name was given as Orland T. Benson, San Pedro, Cal., were later questioned again by troopers then committed to the county jail, where they were locked in separate cells.

Sgt. Morgan B. Davis of the Stroudsburg station said charges of burglary and violation of the firearms code would be lodged against the two today. Other charges may also be filed.

The burglary charges resulted from a break-in at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Duckloe, Stroudsburg RD3, about 2:30 p.m. yesterday.

Mrs. Duckloe and her two children were sleeping upstairs in their home, located north of Stroudsburg on Route 611 opposite CLU Park.

Mrs. Duckloe was awakened by the sound of crashing glass below. "I thought it was the children—they'd broken a window or something."

She went downstairs to investigate and found a man had smashed the window, climbed in and was walking into her dining room.

"He wasn't carrying anything," Mrs. Duckloe said. "When he saw me he offered me $10 to pay for breaking the window. I said I didn't want any money, if he would just leave."

Mrs. Duckloe saw him climb into a black panel truck. The license plate was bent down so that she could not see the numbers. (Sgt. Davis said later it bore Tennessee plates.)

As soon as the truck pulled away Mrs. Duckloe telephoned Stroudsburg State police.

Overgard was checking along Route 611 after being alerted. He spotted the black truck reportedly owned by Cope, and stopped it, Sgt. Davis said. The two occupants were taken to the Mount Pocono station. Beneski arrived there a short time later.

The two men were searched at the substation, but Benson had his pistol concealed inside his sock and shoved down in his shoe. After questioning, the men were taken to Mrs. Duckloe's residence by Beneski and Overgard.

Mrs. Duckloe identified the man who had broken into her home.

Then the troopers put the two in the back of the squad car, handcuffed them together and headed for Stroudsburg.

The street Beneski turned down after Benson pulled the gun adjoins the F. C. Lesoine garage. His wife, however, reported hearing a shot while in her home at 839 Thomas St., about a block away. Apparently most passersby thought the noise was a car back firing.

At the sheriff's office Cope said he was 45 years old and a cook. He told a deputy that a week earlier he had been imprisoned in Cartersville, Ga., for being "under the influence of liquor" while "sleeping in a car." He said he had been a resident of Pennsylvania for 12 years, but did not say exactly when he had lived in state.

Benson gave his age as 34, and his profession as foundry worker. He told the deputy he had spent a total of eight years in the armed forces, off and on from 1936 to 1951.

Telephone Firms Take Legal Action In Week-Old Strike Of CIO Communication Workers

New York, (AP)—A West Virginia company mapped Taft-Hartley action against telephone strikers yesterday, while a sister firm went to court in Kansas and got an injunction.

The twin legal attacks were the first in a week-old strike of 16,000 Western Electric Co. installers in 43 states.

Both were aimed at the CIO Communications Workers of America. The union's Western Electric pickets have kept some non-striking telephone operators away from their switchboards.

Non-striking operators also belong to the union.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. in West Virginia claimed the union is "violating the Taft-Hartley act by engaging in violent, coercive, mass picketing and physical assaults upon the company's employees."

The company added that it is filing charges of unfair labor practices with the National Labor Relations Board in Pittsburgh.

The C. & P. is a subsidiary of the nation's overall telephone firm, American Telephone and Telegraph.

In Topeka, Kas., Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.—another A. T. & T. subsidiary—got a temporary injunction barring Western Electric pickets from interfering with phone service in Kansas.

Said Warden S. Miller, Southwestern's manager for Kansas: "The statewide restraining order was obtained reluctantly and only after there appeared to be no other way to restore telephone service to the public."

"We have a contract with the CWA-CIO which is still in full force and effect and the company is living up to it. Therefore, there is nothing for us to settle through negotiations."

He referred to a contract with the non-striking operators. However, many of these contracts are due to expire in the next few months. Western Electric strikers claim their fight for higher wages will affect the operators when these contracts expire.

Phone operators are on strike in New Jersey, Northern California and Nevada. But their strikes are not directly linked to the Western Electric walkout.

Operators' strikes in Michigan and Ohio have been settled. Some 12,000 Ohio Bell operators today accepted terms similar to those that ended the Michigan walkout earlier—$4 to $7 more a week in wages.

Previous average wages in Ohio ranged from $38 to $88 a week.

Conflicting Moves Feature Steel Dispute

Washington, (AP)—Conflicting moves developed last night to challenge President Truman's power to seize a strike-threatened industry.

New peace talks went forward in the big steel labor dispute—with "no real progress" but an increased willingness to negotiate reported—amid these developments:

One—On Capitol Hill, Chairman Murray (D-Mont.) of the Senate Labor committee announced that public hearings will begin today on a pro-administration bill setting forth the conditions under which the President could seize an industry to avert a strike.

In effect, the bill would give the President the legal authority which some of his critics contend he has already "usurped" by seizing the steel industry.

Two—Two of the nation's powerful business organizations set the stage for a mass meeting here today of 170 industrial and business leaders from all over the country to study Truman's steel mills seizure.

The meeting, presumably to chart strategy to counter the President's action, will be held behind closed doors. It is sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers.

Steel spokesmen have bitterly disputed the President's seizure authority, and four big steel companies have begun court action seeking to oust the government from the seized mills.

The bill to give the President clear cut legal seizure authority was introduced by Sen. Morse (R-Ore.). The Oregon legislator, who sometimes sides with the administration, contends that Truman has an "inherent right"—the same words Truman himself used—to seize the steel industry.

Murray said the first witness will be Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger of the Wage Stabilization board.

White House Claims Truman Misquoted

Washington, (AP)—The White House took the unusual step yesterday of saying President Truman had been misquoted by a caller who said the President told him he would veto a bill to give the states title to submerged lands off their coasts.

The bill is still in Congress, where Senate and House conferees are trying to resolve differences in varying versions passed by the two branches.

I. T. Smoot, a former postmaster at Salt Lake City, said on leaving the White House about noon that Truman had told him when the bill does reach his desk, he will veto it.

St. Paul's Industries Hit By New Flood

St. Paul, Minn. (AP)—Swollen to its greatest depth in recorded history, the Mississippi River poured muddy flood water through low areas of St. Paul last night, affecting more than 5,000 persons and millions of dollars worth of river front industries.

Downstream 125 miles the Mississippi posed a serious threat to Winona, Minn., a city of 25,000. If a dike fails there, one-third of the city will be flooded.

At 4 p.m., CST, the river level here was 21.85 feet, 7.85 feet above flood stage and 2.15 feet above the worst previous flood of 1881. U. S. Army Engineers said the river will probably stop rising when it reaches 22.5 feet Thursday.

The Red Cross estimated 1,500 homes, chiefly on St. Paul's West Side, had been flooded and that 5,000 persons were either driven out or forced to move to upper floors.

Holman Municipal Airport was closed. All but one plane had been removed from northwest airlines' main overhaul base. A large section of the St. Paul railway freight and passenger switching yards was inundated. The American Hoist and Derrick Co. was pumping flood water from its big factories.

The sprawling south St. Paul stockyards were closed as 300 trucks, 25 bulldozers and 1,000 men worked on a four-mile diking system.

The lower "deck" of a naval reserve training station on a Mississippi island was soaked with flood water as 16 men and two officers manned dikes to protect the half million dollar installation.

Ike Favored In New Jersey

By The Associated Press
Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower ruled a slight favorite last night on the eve of New Jersey primary where he faces another test with Sen. Robert A. Taft in the Republican presidential "popularity poll."

Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota is also entered on the GOP ballot, but is generally considered an outsider.

Nearly a million voters were expected to turn out for the contest which marks the first time Taft and Eisenhower have both been on the same ballot since the New Hampshire primary on March 11. Taft failed in an effort to get his name off the New Jersey ballot.

A survey of New Jersey newspaper editors showed Eisenhower in the role of favorite, with expectations that he would get 56 per cent of the total GOP vote against 34 per cent for Taft.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who is setting the pace in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, is unopposed on the New Jersey Democratic ballot.

Second Remington Trial Date Set For Early May

New York (AP)—The second perjury trial of William Remington, 34, former $10,000-a-year Department of Commerce economist, was tentatively set yesterday by Federal Judge John W. Clancy for May 5.

The five counts of the new indictment allege that Remington, of Ridgewood, N. J., falsely denied passing government secrets to a Russian spy courier.

He is also charged with lying in testifying that he never knowingly attended Communist party meetings, that he never paid party dues, that he never tried to recruit anyone into the party, and that he did not know until last year that a young Communist League existed at Dartmouth College which he attended in the late 30's.

Emergency Landing

Honolulu (AP)—A big Pan American Airways Stratocruiser with 38 passengers aboard made an alternate landing at Hilo, Hawaii, yesterday after one of its four engines failed.

North Dakota State Guard Units Put On Active Duty To Battle Wild Red River

Fargo, N. D. (AP)—Three North Dakota State Guard units were put on active service last night as the flooding Red River pounded at an eastern dike protecting the Veterans Hospital here.

C. P. Medley, hospital manager, and the Red Cross issued an appeal for 200 volunteer workers to strengthen the dike, extending along the swollen stream for more than a half mile. Plans were also made to seal off the hospital's lower floors, if necessary.

Medley said the hospital had 140 patients of its own, plus about 56 from St. John's Hospital, which was evacuated Saturday as the Red engulfed its lower floors.

Gov. Norman C. Brundage activated headquarters and the headquarters company of the 140th transportation battalion and the 76th truck company for the flood emergency.

The river level stood at 33.5 feet yesterday. So far more than 2,000 persons in the area of Fargo and Moorhead, across the river in Minnesota, are homeless. Patients from St. John's hospital in Fargo were evacuated Saturday.

The Dakota clinic was abandoned as floodwaters threatened to pour into the basement. About 50 blocks in Fargo and Moorhead are under water.

City manager James Dunn declared the "flood emergency" after U. S. weather observer R. W. Schultz raised his flood crest prediction from 34.5 feet to nearly 36.

Officials were uncertain what the higher crest would mean. In 1943 the Red River rose to 34.5 feet. The city's worst flood occurred in 1897, when a 40.2 foot level was recorded.

Seoul, Korea, Tuesday, (AP)—Fifty-four Allied tanks wheeled into position in front of U. N. lines on the central front yesterday and shot up Red fortifications for almost two hours.

Eligible Army said the bombardment—biggest tank action in weeks—smashed more than 150 Communist bunkers, gun emplacements and trenches. About 300 Reds were killed or wounded.

Not far away 400 Chinese Red infantrymen attacked a U. N. hill position last night under a 500-shell artillery barrage. Allied troops were driven off but stormed back again early today under an artillery and mortar barrage.

Bad weather limited B-26 night bombers to two sorties Monday night. B-29 Superforts hit the Sinanju rail bridges.

The overcast also cut naval aircraft sorties, but the battleship Iowa and the destroyer Mackenzie steamed into the east coast harbor of Wonsan and attacked Communist shore gun emplacements.

The Allied tanks fired from fixed positions southwest of Kumsong. The Reds returned the first with artillery, mortars and small arms.

The battle for the central front hill position picked up where another left off only 200 yards away earlier in the day.

In the first fight, Allied infantrymen recaptured the high ground in a swaying, close-quarter fracas with Chinese Reds that lasted nearly six hours.

Freight Rates Increased

Washington, (AP)—New freight increases estimated to cost the nation's shippers about 678 million dollars a year were granted yesterday by the government.

An order by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) increases rates 15 per cent above levels of a year ago, but six per cent of this already is in effect in the south and west and nine per cent in the east. Therefore the "new increase" for the south and west will be nine per cent and for the east six per cent. Some exceptions apply to a short list of commodities.

The railroads had asked a 15 per cent increase last year, claiming their revenues have failed to keep pace with rising labor and material costs. Only a part of this was granted originally, the remainder being approved today.

Jersey Bell Settles Dispute

Newark, N. J. (AP)—(Tuesday)—A contract agreement—providing a $4 a week pay increase—was reached yesterday between the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company and its 10,000 striking telephone operators.

The agreement includes a maintenance of union membership clause, but not the union shop sought by the operators' union, the Communications Workers of America (CIO).

Harold E. Manvel, bank manager who was clouted with a gun butt, was questioned in Elizabeth General Hospital where doctors took nine stitches in his scalp.

Investigations Uncover Major Facts In San Juan Air Crash

San Juan, Puerto Rico, (AP)—District Attorney Sollo Dueno, investigating last Friday's Pan American Airways crash in which 52 of 69 aboard perished, said yesterday 11 survivors claimed the crewmen did not help them adequately.

Dueno told newsmen that his probe disclosed the only warning given to the passengers before the crippled plane was ditched in the Atlantic near here was: "No smoking, fasten your belts."

The district attorney said he will question four of the five crewmen. Dueno so far has talked only with the pilot, Capt.

The Weather

Partly cloudy and cooler, with scattered showers at the higher elevations and highest 45 to 50 today. Tomorrow fair and mild.

Disaster Hangs By Thread At Council Bluffs

Omaha (AP)—Three-quarters of the city of Council Bluffs, Ia.,—with 45,000 population—last night had been moved out of threatened areas as flood disaster hung by a slender thread over the bluffs and across the Missouri River, the sister city of Omaha.

Seventeen square miles of the two cities had a ghost town aspect last night as the marauding Missouri came pushing down after mercilessly punishing Pierre, S.D., and Sioux City, Ia., along with a host of smaller towns.

From South Dakota down through Nebraska and Iowa, and into Kansas and Missouri the river was tirelessly punching away.

In two other rich midwest valleys, the Mississippi and the Red River of the north were creating misery.

The Red River hit at the twin-cities of Fargo and Moorhead, routing an estimated 2,000 from homes and pouring over about 50 blocks of ground.

To meet the threat there Gov. Norman C. Brundage of North Dakota ordered out three State guard units. An the Red Cross rushed out a call for volunteers to work through the night building sandbag dikes to protect the menaced Fargo veterans hospital.

It all added up to one of the worst combinations of Midwest flooding in modern times—a disaster which the Red Cross translated into terms of 19,349 families—perhaps 74,000 persons or more—made homeless in a nine-state area including Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

For frightful depredations, the Missouri was taking the lead.

Army engineers reported one and a quarter million acres of land, some of the richest in middle America, under water along the Missouri and tributaries.

The record-breaking crest yesterday reached Sioux City, Iowa's second largest metropolis. But capitulation already had come to Sioux City with its 84,035 residents. The crest only sent water higher and further into flooded suburban areas and the stockyards district.

As of 12 noon (EST), Mayor Ralph Henderson ordered a shutdown of all Sioux City business places except drug stores and eateries to ease the strain on sanitary sewers.

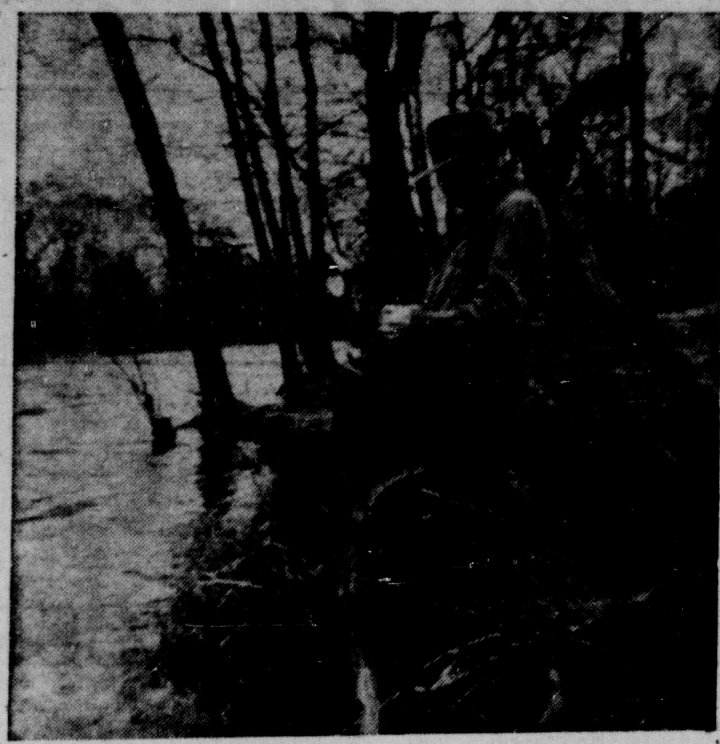

Downstream the river, normally only a couple of stone throws wide, spread out 10 miles and more. Gobbled up in the surging wash of silt laden water were hundreds of farms. Towns—perhaps a dozen of them in the flatland valley—were deserted by all except a few hardy stay-behinds, relief workers—and still rising water.

For sheer drama, however, the situation at Omaha and Council Bluffs, about 100 miles downstream from Sioux City, was unrivaled.

While water in unprecedented volume strained against dikes protecting the cities, river forecasters boosted by a foot and a half the crest expected in the metropolitan area Thursday morning.

That means a 31.5 foot crest—12½ feet over flood stage, nearly seven feet over the known record high of 1881, nearly five feet over the crest which levees and flood walls were designed to handle.

PLAYING IT SAFE, here's a photo of a trout enthusiast getting set to put on film the spot where the big ones were stocked several days ago. The season opens today, but with the water high and the weather cold, we'd wager this lad will be attending the baseball season opener in Philly.

Poor Prospects In Sight For First Day Of Fishing Season

High water, cool weather with the threat of more rain and possible snow flakes in the mountain regions handed even the most avid trout fishermen poor prospects for the opening of the 1952 season this morning.

A total of 38 streams in Monroe and Pike counties, all heavily stocked with legal size trout, will be open to fishing for the first time since March 15.

Fish Warden Floyd Bachman noted that the Big Bushkill Creek in Monroe County has been eliminated from "open" waters this year. It has been replaced by an equally long section of the McMichaels Creek.

Stocking of the Big Bushkill was eliminated this year because it was closed to public fishing and the quota was devoted to McMichaels.

Pennsylvania Fish Commission stocked heavily this spring. Reason was that the fall stocking project was abandoned in 1951.

Sportsmen aiding in dumping fish this year noted that both the size and quality of the fish stocked showed definite improvement over those stocked in previous years.

Fish Warden Bachman warned that the creel limit per day has been cut from ten to eight trout per person.

By special arrangements promoted by Pocono Mountains Sportsmen's Association that section of Brodheads Creek from Stroudsburg Water Co. dam above Stokes Mill to Penn Hills

Four Men To Serve Short Jail Sentences

Four young men were put on their honor to go to county jail in Stroudsburg yesterday to serve 17-day sentences for disorderly conduct.

They kept their words. Unaccompanied, the four showed up at the county jail about 9:30 p.m.

They were booked by a deputy and committed to begin their sentences.

The four, listed as David L. Miller, 18, Effort; Donald Bond, 19, Saylorsburg; Roland Newell, 21, Saylorsburg; and Freeman Altomose, 18, Stroudsburg RDI, received the sentence after refusing to pay fines of $5 and costs each, levied by Justice of the Peace Francis Marvin, Bartonsville.

The justice said the four broke windows Saturday at the home of Mrs. Mary Argue, Bartonsville, threw a beer bottle through one of the windows, and annoyed girls living in the house.

After the hearing yesterday the justice was faced with the problem of transporting the four to the jail. The four then volunteered to escort themselves, and the justice took them up on it.

Line Material Plans Addition To Main Plant In Latest Move Of Expansion By Company

The third of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James B. Gaffney

In an effort to expand production facilities, Line Material Co. in East Stroudsburg, a division of McGraw Electric Co., is contemplating an addition to their main plant which will cost $250,000. Work is expected to start as soon as materials are available.

This announcement by company officials indicates clearly the progress Line Material is making and the major role the firm shares in furthering the industrial wealth of the Stroudsburgs. And, in addition to the proposed building plan, Line Material also has revealed a new boiler house, with the latest boilers and oil tanks, will be in operation this summer at a cost of $85,000.

A contributing factor economically to this section, Line Material first was established in 1911 and the local plant was started in 1925. Only three years ago, as the firm celebrated its 25th anniversary, it became a division of McGraw Electric Co. and many advancements have been noticed since that time.

The third largest Line Material firm in McGraw's 12-team line-up, the East Stroudsburg plant was the only supplier of Bartow type lights used on government-operated airports during World War Two. The period during that conflict also was the busiest for employees, since the peak employment was reached at that time with 600 on the payroll. Line Material also gained national recognition in the war effort and received two Army-Navy "E" awards.

After the war, with conditions returning to civilian usage, Line Material began to produce in large quantities for utility concerns throughout the country and presently employs 250 persons and contributed $895,530.00 in pay checks during 1951.

Commenting on the firm's growth, Gilbert L. Smrz, general manager of the local plant said "We are mindful that age is an advantage only if it brings growth in the opportunity and ability to become a substantial part of a community and carry its rightful share of responsibilities to the people therein; wisdom to adhere to the principles and ideals by which the confidence of this community and its people has been gained."

"From this point of view" he added, "we of Line Material feel we can look back over our record with considerable satisfaction."

Comparing the concern's development, back in 1925 only 52 persons were employed and the annual payroll totaled $78,000. Cost of machinery, a paramount phase in any industry's growth, shows $127,471 was utilized in 1925 and today, with increased production, the firm's equipment and machinery totals $1,064,192.

J. R. Altomose, who is personnel director of the local plant, brought the figures up to date, noting that in 1925 shipments from the plant, in dollar value, were $217,403, while last year the over-all amount totaled $3,540,108. Shipments in pounds also tell the story of expansion, since 2,741,424 pounds were moved in 1925 and last year that amount was augmented almost seven times the first figure, totaling 14,404,470 pounds in 1951.

Back in 1925 when the plant covered an area of 31,942 square feet, purchases totaled $71,882 and last year the local facilities were spread over an area 129,200 square feet, and purchased $2,110,237.

"During the past 13 years Line Material's local plant purchased $1,398,964 from local firms," Altomose said "and during the past 27 years our employees have received $10,192,242 in wages and salaries."

A new office building was opened November, 1948 at a cost of $86,000 and it is here that the net-work of material productivity originated.

Recently McGraw Electric Co. constructed two new Line Material plants. One is located at Olean, N. Y. and the other at Sherman, Texas. They also have acquired two additional plants, proving expansion is the keynote for progress by this concern.

Principal products of the East Stroudsburg plant are pole line hardware, used by utilities in building electrical lines; airport lighting units, used on airfields all over the world and street lighting units, used by utilities and municipalities to light their streets.

Smrz, with the company for 30 years, concluded "We have labored unceasingly to improve our position in the community and to improve the position of the company with the outside world, and time has greatly rewarded these efforts. Within our organization, we have tried to give each other cooperation and a full measure of fair treatment."

"All we ask," he added "is a continuation of the fine cooperative spirit and assistance of the public, and we will do our utmost to warrant your continued confidence and aid in building a better community for all of us in which to live."

State College Driver Cleared

New York (AP)—A young driver from State College, Pa., struck and killed an 11-year-old boy in Brooklyn yesterday but police released the driver, saying it was "purely an accident."

Police said Albert E. Snyder Jr., 25, of State College, Pa., was driving along Brooklyn's Belt Parkway when Carmine Lo Bianco, 11, ran across the parkway.

An ambulance was called, but the boy was dead when it arrived. Snyder was released after questioning by police of the Bath Beach Station, who said the driver had not had time to stop before he struck the boy, and was obviously not at fault.

Testing of Tempers

Much has been written and much more will be written about the statistics on motor vehicle accidents throughout the years, since they have become one of the foremost elements in our national life, but there seems to be a certain emphasis on recurrent phases of the known accident data.

For example, in 90 per cent of all accidents, reported in 1951, male drivers were involved.

Of the drivers involved in accidents, 97 per cent of them had at least one year of driving experience, and 38 per cent of the crashes occurred on open highways. More than that, 94 per cent of all vehicles in fatal accidents were in apparently good condition at the time of the crash.

All of which brings us to the proposition that there is an increasingly painful accident phenomenon, which revolves around the temper of the individual behind the wheel. Traffic is heaviest from 7 to 10 o'clock in the morning, when America goes to work and from 4 to 7 in the afternoon and early evening, when the process is reversed. But note this: the number of accidents in the home-coming period are twice that of the early morning rush.

Which brings us to the conviction that in the morning the man behind the wheel has completed his night's rest, had his morning coffee, and is comparatively at peace with the world, so that he can take the traffic irritations in his stride without getting burned up about the stupidity of his fellows.

But in the afternoon, his nerves and emotions are lacerated from the hours during which the world has been giving him the business, and when the encounters addle-pated driving as he heads for home, his boiling point is apt to be low. Hence, the increased traffic hazards, as the vexed citizen takes chances to get himself moving rapidly in the direction of home. What's to be done? Nothing. You can't legislate against frayed nerves.

Parents Are People

Parents, a long-suffering group of second-class citizens driven to querulous uncertainty by the boldly authoritative and bafflingly conflicting precepts of child psychology faddists, someday may cast off that hangdog look.

A hopeful note, falling as sweet music on tender parental ears cauldroning under ceaseless buffetings, has been sounded by no less an authority than Dr. Benjamin M. Spock.

The thesis of Dr. Spock, professor of child development at University of Pittsburgh and one of the world's top experts in his field, was this:

Modern parents are getting so much advice on how to raise children they are more confused than ever.

Spinach is good for them. Spinach is bad for them. Fairy tales are fine. Fairy tales are fierce.

Out of this welter of conflict, Dr. Spock concluded, there is "some evidence" a "sensible, middle-of-the-road" attitude toward raising children is beginning to develop.

Well spoken, Dr. Spock!

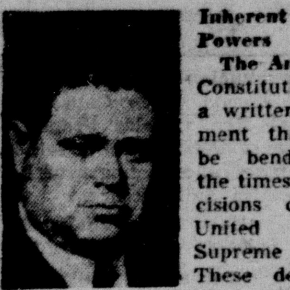

The day may come again when Dad can chide Junior for nailing his slippers to the floor without having mother say: "The book says you'll frustrate him that way."

And without Dad's having to ask: "Which book?"

The onion, which came from Asia, is one of the oldest cultivated vegetables.

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

loose and strict interpretations, depending upon the personnel of the court.

However, when it comes to a question of "inherent powers" for the President, powers not granted to him by the Constitution but asserted by him as arising out of its Preamble, the document itself loses all its force. An "inherent power" cannot be defined. It can be anything that the President himself may determine it to be. One day, because of an "inherent power," the President seizes the steel industry; the next day, he may seize your home, to quarter favorites.

The power and function of the President is clearly stated in Article II of the Constitution. In that article, not one word is said about "inherent powers." However, it is provided that "the executive power shall be vested in the President of the United States of America." The very word, executive, used here means that the President is granted "the general administrative control of those executing the laws." (Myers v. U. S.)

Certainly when the President has a law to use, he need not go far afield to seek "inherent powers." In labor relations matters, the President has the Taft-Hartley Law, which he is faithfully bound to execute. His unwillingness to use this measure because it displeases him has nothing to do with the law. Wherever a provision of a law is mandatory, it is not the function of the President to like or dislike the law; his function is to execute it. Mr. Truman thinks apparently that his private desires are public functions.

The Tenth Amendment to the Constitution kills off any idea of "inherent powers" because it specifically says:

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people."

In Kansas v. Colorado, the Supreme Court held:

"This amendment . . . disclosed the widespread fear that the National Government might, under the pressure of a supposed general welfare, attempt to exercise powers which had not been granted. With equal determination the framers intended that no such assumption should ever find justification in the organic act, and that if in the future further powers seemed necessary they should be granted by the people in the manner they had provided for amending that act . . ."

In the Sick Chicken Case (Schechter Poultry Corp. v. United States), which killed the NRA, the Supreme Court held:

"The conditions to which power is addressed are always to be considered when the exercise of power is challenged. Extraordinary conditions may call for extraordinary remedies. But the argument necessarily stops short of an attempt to justify action which lies outside the sphere of Constitutional authority. Extraordinary conditions do not create or enlarge Constitutional powers. The Constitution established a national government with powers deemed to be adequate, as they have proved to be both in war and peace, but these powers of the national government are limited by the Constitutional grants. Those who act under these grants are not at liberty to transcend the imposed limits because they believe that more or different power is necessary. Such assertions of extra-Constitutional authority were anticipated and precluded by the explicit terms of the Tenth Amendment."

In a word, the President of the United States may not make his own law any more than you or I or Frank Costello can. The place to enact law is the Congress; the man to execute the law is the President. When the President acts by whim because he is in a hurry, he establishes a despotism which the Constitution seeks to avoid.

The theory of "inherent powers" is as dubious as the theory of the "divine right of kings" or the theory that Hitler possessed messianic qualities or that Stalin can make no mistakes. Any theory which is based on whim and wish is antagonistic to the American system of life, where the law should prevail.

This is not a discussion of the steel strike; it is a discussion of the incorrect and dangerous ideas associated with the President's reasons for seizing the steel industry. The basic reason is his assumption of authority on a theory of inherent powers based on the Preamble to the Constitution. It is false doctrine.

Try And Stop Me

Yale's hefty football coach, Herman Hickman, once tried to teach a bunch of Texas aviation cadets the rudiments of the game. Before the first scrimmage he reminded them, "Kick that ball, boys, and if that's impossible, take the man opposite you out of play. Let's go! Where's the ball?" One of the Texans ejaculated, "Heck, fergit the ball! Let's get started with the game!"

Austerity note from London: Aboard a bus that was edging its way through the traffic on Oxford Street, a mother recited her little girl, "Eat as much as you can get at your schoolmate's party. We're having fish again this evening." "Fish again," grumbled the girl. "Is it Friday, mom?" The mother sighed. "No, my dear. It's England."

The Once Over

That Annual Style Show

The Easter Parade or annual Finery Fiesta and Flashlight Orgy was celebrated with all the traditional silliness, showmanship and love of publicity. A good time was had by all . . . up to the moment the photographers called it a day. It demonstrated among other things that thousands of adults never grow up, that an annual high-bat census has become routine business and that the milliners of America are still playing practical jokes. Our Fifth Avenue correspondents covering the event, bruise by bruise, report:

Colonel and Mrs. Z. Jarvis Doopseydoo were a sensational couple in costumes by Abbott & Costello. Mrs. Doopseydoo never looked more haphazardly expensive. The Colonel was impressively uncomfortable. (He knew one of his garters had snapped but couldn't bend over to make repairs without losing face.)

Mrs. Galloway Z. Longhill III, and her two daughters, Uppa and Downa, were out early in $10,000 worth of fresh fabrics and would have done well but for their bonnets, which must have been designed with criminal intent. The dowager evidently still wears a bustle. The two girls will be remembered from the 1951 Easter Parade when they finally attracted a cameraman's attention by standing on their heads in front of Radio City.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubba-Hubba Hostetters made the grade on sheer fortitude, never giving up until photographed by a newspaperman too tired to care. Mrs. Hostetters wore an expression of anxiety over arsenic and old lace. Her husband was doing all right until he was disqualified for appearing in a pair of last crazy. After wearing a Butch that in "People Will Talk," he let it grow for three long-haired roles that followed in a row. "Grows like a weed," Currie complained. "I'll be glad to cut it off."

If you'd be correct: Jack Palance rhymes his name with "balance" . . . Ann Sheridan, sunning herself on the outdoor set of "Just Across the Street," declared she hadn't gained a gram. I'd asked, cad-like, if she hadn't put on a pound or two . . .

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—The Senate Judiciary Committee can perform a notable service for the American people when it calls Federal Judge James P. McGranery before it to consider his nomination as attorney general of the United States.

Senator Pat McCarran, Nevada Democrat who is chairman of the Judiciary Committee and not notably pro-McGranery, has indicated that the notorious Amerasia case will again be explored.

To begin with, the senator should once and for all gag Judge McGranery, and any Justice Department officials called as witnesses, with the truth concerning the nature of the almost 2,000 government documents stolen by Communists and their playmates who were involved in the Amerasia case.

Judge McGranery, who was assistant to the attorney general in 1945 when the FBI arrested John S. Service and five others, has insisted since that date that the stolen documents were innocuous parcels of disconnected newspaper clippings containing no threat to the nation's security.

James M. McInerney, assistant attorney general in charge of the Criminal Division, Department of Justice, is another law enforcement officer who has maintained that the stolen papers were of mere postage.

During his appearance before the Tydings whitewash investigation of Reds in the State Department, McInerney had this to say:

"I would say that with respect to all of these documents, that they were of innocuous, very innocuous character. If I would estimate that 1 per cent of them related to our national defense, that would be about right. They had to do with very minor political and economical matters in the Far East, and I say that having been chief of the internal security section of the department all during the war, I handled all the espionage cases for the department and these things impressed me as being a little above the level of tenuous gossip in the Far East."

McGranery, who was greased into his Federal judgeship by the then Attorney General Tom Clark, was McInerney's boss. He first established the fiction that nothing of importance was stolen from secret government files. In one instance he told a congressional committee:

"I went back to check up to see how we stood with some of the things you gentlemen talked about, principally this bombing paper that seems to be stressed. On the one hand it could be said that it is a very innocuous thing. The paper, itself, is not an original. It seems to have been taken from a number of sources of periodicals, Navy periodicals that perhaps were restricted."

Two of the six arrested in the Amerasia case were freed following light fines. Four others were never taken to court. Throughout the legal proceedings constant references were made to the grand juries and the court that the thievery was petty. It was, in fact, a chorus of belittlement with occasional refrains that filching secret documents from government files was a commonplace practice among Washington newspapermen.

Only once did McGranery change his tune. And that was when a congressman forced him to admit that if a Russian-lover could steal one paper he could steal almost any secret paper. The judge said, "that is the angle that Congress is after," but it was not the angle the Department of Justice was after.

All the six arrested in the Amerasia case had government documents in their possession when the FBI raided their various homes and offices. It took a truck to haul the loot back to the government files where it belonged.

Here is a breakdown of the "innocuous" documents—so labeled by McGranery and McInerney:

Restricted, 119; Confidential, 208; Strictly Confidential, 59; Secret, 133; Very Secret, 1. The remainder were unclassified.

Of the total, 117 dealt with military matters; 438 with political; 119 biographical; 275 publications. The remainder defy classification.

Senator Tydings and his committee joined in labeling the documents innocuous.

Before the judge is confirmed the Senate ought to ask him for another definition of the word. There are all kinds of papers in the Department of Justice marked "secret." And he'll be in charge of them.

Most killed animals are eaten at once by others, including big scavengers such as vultures and jackals. But, little creatures called sexton beetles take care of many killed animals. They can bury the body of a dead rabbit in a single night.

Even trees. But I believe that the very fact that after a three months' visit Gerald Maurois is going to write a guidebook to New York is one of the reasons why foreigners have such a completely mistaken idea about America and Americans. Three months here and they know all about America!

Let us take a few of Maurois' utterances—and these I believe are going to go into his guidebook.

He has, he says, visited every museum and historic house in the city, room by room, and "traversed between twelve and fifteen promenades."

How can anybody write a guidebook to New York by "promenading" through museums? It's PEOPLE that make a town.

He says New York is "undoubtedly the center of business. Certainly there is more money handled in New York than anywhere and consequently attracted there are the best music, best ballet—there is practically nothing in that line that New York hasn't to offer."

Mr. Maurois has observed that there is almost nothing "old" in New York. Everything is new.

He went down to Coentis Slip to look at the oldest house in New York. It was gone. In its stead a brand-new post-office had been erected.

"So dynamic!" he exclaimed. The most fascinating thing he found in New York—I suppose you will find it in his guidebook—was a bottling plant "with an enormous machine that produces 400,000 bottles of beer a day."

"Are they drinking that much beer in New York?" he asked.

Among the customs of our country "the etiquette between men and women" interested him particularly.

He mentioned, among other things "pushing the chair under the woman when she sits down at a table," and the fact that "the American girl waits in front of a door until the man goes around and opens it."

Mr. Maurois has already published another book.

It is called "Cooking With a French Touch."

I suppose the new guidebook will be called "New York with a French Touch."

We might be able to persuade him to stay another two or three weeks and write a "Guide to America."

Hollywood—Betty Hutton says she hated the man who is now her husband when they first met seven months ago. That was on the set of "Somebody Loves Me." Charlie O'Curran was her dance director.

"I hated him; we didn't agree on anything," the blonde sizzler told me soon after their surprise elopement to Las Vegas.

"I'd ask him, 'How'm I doing?' and he'd say, 'Pretty bad.' That was his sense of humor, which I didn't realize. We started fighting. The more we fought, the more we fell in love."

O'Curran, 37 (to Betty's 31), looks remarkably like Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. He'd been escorting Miss Hutton to various functions, but nobody knew it was that serious.

What about two movie careers in the family? "I tried the other," Betty said, referring to her previous marriage to Ted Briskin, Chicago camera manufacturer. "I thought I shouldn't be married to anybody in the business."

Kintner Visits Western Part Of State

Meetings and activities in the Knights of Malta have been very heavy during the past three weeks, involving Grand Commander Clifford R. Kintner in the anniversary and other incidents. The head of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania reported improvement in the general condition of the Order during his term of office which is soon to come to a close on May 15. The next Grand Commander is from Pittsburgh and he has pledged himself to continue the good work of rebuilding the Order.

On March 25 the local commandery, St. John's No. 186, presented the following with fifty-year membership certificates: Irvin L. Transue, Lee S. Kistler, August E. Miller, John G. Johnston, Walter H. Robinson, PGC, I. Walter Edinger, Walter L. Halterman and posthumously to Mrs. Allen Williams for her brother the late George W. Duke. On March 27 Grand Commander Kintner attended the 59th Anniversary of Columbian Commandery No. 132 at Middletown, and presented 20 of their members with fifty-year certificates.

Supreme Commander Dr. Charles J. Higgs of Wilkes-Barre and Grand Recorder Elias J. Sterner of Lancaster were also present and participated in the festivities.

The next day Kintner visited Sandilands Commandery No. 152 at York for their special events celebration. The Grand Recorder also attended this meeting and made the principal address. Kintner was entertained during the afternoon by the York City Clerk, Wilbur C. Baker, who is the recorder of the York Commandery. On March 31 he attended the 59th anniversary program of Norman Commandery No. 135 at Lehigh. The Supreme Commander was also in attendance at this meeting and PSC Donald B. Cahoon, a lawyer from Scranton, made the principal address. Movies and refreshments followed this largely attended meeting.

During the balance of the week from April 1 to 5 inclusive, Grand Commander Kintner made the following official visits: Clermont Commandery No. 395 at Derry, Glendale Commandery No. 556 at Johnstown, Holy Grail Commandery No. 384 at Perryopolis, Ivy Commandery No. 358 at Greensburg, Star of the East Commandery No. 461 of Cumberland, Md., and headquarters at Lancaster. Grand Generalissimo Wilbur A. Mather of Pittsburgh attended the Greensburg, Cumberland and Lancaster meetings.

This week the ultimate Degree of the Red Cross and Sepulchre was exemplified on a class of nineteen by St. James Commandery No. 68 of Allentown, assisted by Norman Commandery No. 135 of Lehigh with Edward Dinsmore as Sovereign commander of the work. Ninety members were in attendance. This degree is worked annually by the Allentown Commandery for the Lehigh Valley Degree Association. Companions were present from all the commanderies in the Lehigh Valley, including Allentown, Lehigh, Lansford, Easton, Bangor, Tatamy, Lancaster, Bethlehem, Reading and Stroudsburg. Grand Commander Kintner and Grand Captain General Peter M. Dearinger of Granville made brief addresses of welcome before the degree ceremony.

Thieves Rob Liquor Store

Chester, (AP)—Police reported yesterday that thieves chopped a hole in the wall of a Chester State Liquor store and carried away 200 cases of whisky, valued at $15,000.

Detectives Leander Tassoni and Theodore Laws said the thieves entered a warehouse next door to the liquor store through a skylight and then chopped a hole in the wall of the adjoining buildings.

They loaded the whisky on a truck stored in the warehouse and drove away. The first notice of the theft came when the owner of the truck, Ervin Carder, discovered it missing this morning.

Appeals Court Clears Way For Merger

New York (AP)—An Appeals Court yesterday reversed a decision blocking a proposed merger of the Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The new ruling left the way open for the proposed merger, which would bring together two Protestant denominations with a total membership of 1,850,000.

Yesterday's four-to-one ruling by the appellate division of the New York State Supreme Court nullified a two-year-old decision by Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink banning the church union.

The higher court declared that "the civil courts do not interfere with ecclesiastical matters in which temporal rights are not involved."

The proposed merger had been attacked by the Cadman Memorial Church, of Brooklyn, and the Cadman Memorial Congregational Society, in a suit against the general council of the Congregational Christian Churches.

The Brooklyn Church charged the merger would deprive individual congregations of "traditional autonomy."

In addition to banning the merger, Justice Steinbrink had restrained the general council from using any congregational funds or properties to advance the proposed consolidation.

The higher court, however, ruled that "ecclesiastical or doctrinal questions may be inquired into only insofar as it may be necessary to do so to determine the civil or property rights of the parties."

It added that the Brooklyn church had failed to "establish any rights or interests to the funds or other assets" which would bring the ecclesiastical question of merger into a civil court's jurisdiction.

The merger, first proposed in 1947, would form the United Church of Christ.

It would embrace the 5,715 Congregational Christian Churches, with more than 1,184,000 members, and the 3,000 Evangelical and Reformed Churches, with a membership of more than 714,000.

The original trial took 23 court days and 3,000 pages of testimony.

213 Killed In Pennsylvania In First Two Months Of Year

Harrisburg, (AP)—A Pennsylvania Motor Federation Conference was told here yesterday that 213 persons were killed on public highways during the first two months of 1952.

Another 11 persons died in crashes on the Pennsylvania turnpike during that time, said a report delivered for T. Elmer Transeau, director of the State Bureau of Highway Safety.

The report was read to members of the PMF safety committee by R. B. Maxwell, Harrisburg, secretary-manager of the PMF, in the absence of Transeau.

Transeau's report said that deaths for the first two months of last year were higher with 241 on State highways and 16 on the State's toll road.

In another address Ivan J. Stehman, chief of highway safety education for the State Department of Public Instruction, predicted that the number of high schools in Pennsylvania offering courses in driver training will double its present total of 285 when the Fall term begins.

Picket Lines Called Off At Drive-In

Picket lines established Saturday by members of Stroudsburg Local 710, International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Motion Picture Operators, AFL, were called off yesterday pending negotiations with management of the Pocono Drive-In on Route 611 near Bartonsville.

Union and management are scheduled to rehearse their wage grievances again today. Joseph DeRenzis, business representative of the local and Melvin Heimbach and Alfred Mazar will meet this afternoon at the theater.

The drive-in, which last season employed two union men, is currently using a stand-by assistant operator until the wage difficulties are ironed out, Mazar said Sunday night.

Ten Perish In Patrol Plane Crash

Brunswick, Me. (AP)—Five of the ten-member crew perished yesterday in the flaming wreckage of a crippled patrol plane that crashed in a mist in woods at the edge of the U. S. naval air station here.

The other five were injured, one critically burned. They were carried from the burning two-engine P2V Ventura by rescue forces which were delayed by the rough terrain from reaching the scene.

Names of the injured and dead were not released immediately.

The plane's tail section was ripped off by the crash. The fire fed on 1,200 gallons of gasoline.

The plane, returning from a training mission, had one dead engine as it tried to land on a new runway. The plane was attached to patrol squadron 26.

Commander J. D. Ifft said it swooped below the overcast in instrument flying weather.

It came in to one side of the runway and was making a second approach when, Ifft said, "something else went wrong" and the ship hit the trees.

"Probably the second-engine was cutting out," Ifft said.

Glen Alden Likely To Cut Coal Price

Reduction to be Large, According to Reports

Reports were in circulation today that the Glen Alden Coal Co., world's largest producer of anthracite, will announce one of the largest reductions in coal prices in years on Monday.

The reduction, for four popular sizes, pea, chestnut, stove and egg, will amount to $1.10 a ton for each size.

Reflecting the slack market for fuel with the arrival of warmer weather, the lower prices will be effective immediately, although the Glen Alden is expected to warn its customers that there are possibilities that the prices will be restored to prereduction levels during the summer months.

It was reported that the $1.10 per ton reduction for pea, chestnut, stove and egg coal is the biggest single price reduction authorized by any company in many years.

The Glen Alden Coal Co. price cut followed an announcement 10 days ago by the Hudson Coal Co. that its prices for the various sizes were being reduced, although on a smaller ratio than the cut being made by Glen Alden. The Hudson Coal reduction for pea coal was $1 a ton. There were slightly smaller reductions for other domestic sizes.

We have not received new prices from any of our shippers, but believe new prices will become effective the early part of this week.

Not "warmed over" but strictly brand new!

You owe it to your pocketbook to drive this Chrysler engine before you buy any fine car today.

It's not a "warmed-over" engine, but a basically brand-new one!

It gives a new kind of performance that means new value for every dollar you pay out for purchase, upkeep, or operation.

It was built brand-new around a hemispherical combustion chamber which makes better use of gasoline, and also permits sounder all-round engine structure, than any American motor car engine has had before.

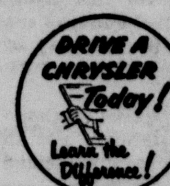

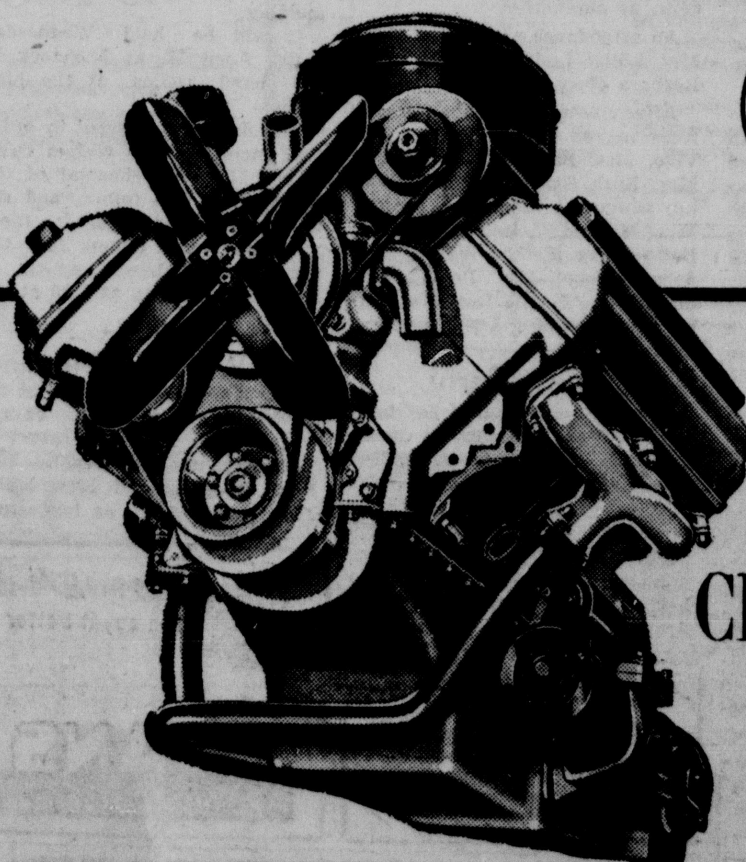

It delivers 180 horsepower... without requiring you to buy premium gasoline. It runs with less waste, less heat, less friction and less wear than previous designs can equal. Its combustion is so clean it literally develops almost no carbon deposit at all.

It will last longer than any engine you've ever known. It will cost you less along the way. It will stay "young" in performance thousands of miles past the point where an ordinary engine shows old age.

And on top of all that, it makes driving a lot more pleasure! Its smooth response... its safety-power, in reserve for emergencies... its easy scorn for distance or hills... make you just plain feel good at the wheel as you've never felt before.

For the good of your purse and your pleasure too... we invite you to drive it, soon!

Mata and Hari

Mata, Hari Had Earlier Triumph Here

The local scene should be no surprise to Mata and Hari, dance satirists, who will present a program of danced theatre here at the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium on Wednesday night as the fourth in a series of Community Concerts.

One of their earliest engagements after establishing themselves as a dance team in this country was a four-week engagement as guest dancers at Camp Tamiment above Bushkill, where young Danny Kaye was on his way up as a comedian and where his wife, Sylvia Fine, who writes most of Danny's material, became so interested in the young dance team that she composed the music for the "Hindu Fakir" number.

Their appearance at Camp Tamiment was also responsible for their engagement for their first Broadway show, "Straw Hat Revue". They now devote about six months a year to their national tours. The rest of the time they divide between television and personal appearances.

Natives of Switzerland, their real names are Meta Krahn and Paul Uhlrich, and they came to this country with a European troupe of dancers. They have adapted their background of classic training the dance form to their own hilarious and highly individual art in which they satirize a succession of institutions including Carnegie Hall, a sports newsreel, the ballet and the temp of life along 42nd St. in New York.

The concert will begin at 8:30, and is open only to Community Concert subscribers.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Everybody who yesterday afternoon said "Why couldn't we have this weather for Easter!" could eat their words last night. April is living up to her reputation for fickleness.

And quite likely to lose her fondest admirers—when the fishermen find out what she has in store for them at the crack of dawn this morning—and the baseball fans find out what she's got up her sleeve for this afternoon—and the school children see what she does to the last day of vacation.

Still think the school authorities were smart, though, not to schedule the first day of school for the first day of fishing season. Let them get cold and wet enough and maybe they'll be willing to wait for a warm bright weekend.

Though fishermen—even small ones—seem impervious to the weather. And I should add, even fishermen, with a tip of the hat to Betty Schell and Mayne McNeal and—and—don't tell me that's all I know about.

Mostly, though, the women are going to be so busy with meetings these next few days that they're not even going to notice the weather except as it gives those spanking new Easter outfits that comfortable, lived-in look that they usually don't acquire until well after May day.

Stroudsburg Woman's Club Hears Watt On Wills

The importance of making a will was stressed yesterday afternoon in the talk given by John Watt, trust officer of the Stroudsburg Security Trust Co., in his talk on "A Woman and Her Money" at the meeting of the Stroudsburg Woman's Club at the Stroud Community House.

"A will is the only way in which a person can distribute the property accumulated in his lifetime, and its preparation should be a most careful one, never to be undertaken without legal advice," he said.

He outlined certain basic principles which should be taken into consideration in making a will. Persons who die without leaving a will are doing those nearest them an injustice, he pointed out, with the state, in effect, making a will for him, determining the proportion each shall receive, appointing a manager who must be bonded at the expense of the estate, and appointing a guardian for minor children.

Certain common errors which may prove costly, he pointed out, are wills which attempt to assign property in its entirety without providing for taxes and the fact of its diminishing by death; of giving specific sums rather than portions of the estate; of inserting bequests impossible to carry out; of assuming that joint ownership of property takes the place of a will.

He explained the various types of trusts which a person could set up to insure not only that the estate be distributed according to his wishes, but also that it be administered as efficiently and economically as possible. He outlined living trusts, agency accounts; testamentary trusts and life insurance trusts.

His talk followed the musical portion of the program presented by Mrs. Burton George and Mrs. Francis Meredith, who sang three duets, an aria from the "Marriage of Figaro," "Ye Banks and Braes" by Burns, and selections from "Carousel" with Mrs. Kenneth Lewis as their accompanist.

Mrs. Parke Kunkle introduced Mr. Watt and Mrs. William Levering the musicians.

Mrs. George T. Robinson presided at the business meeting when tribute was paid to the memory of Mrs. A. T. Shian, a longtime and faithful member of the club.

Announcement was made of the Monroe County Federation's Spring meeting on May 1, and Mrs. Paul W. Lloyd gave the report of the nominating committee. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Frank H. French, and Mrs. Floyd Bachman. The new officers will be elected at the May meeting.

Mrs. Christie Shull spoke on behalf of the Cancer Society, although a film scheduled to be shown was cancelled because of a mechanical failure. Members were requested to call at WVPO to make recordings on behalf of the Cancer drive.

Following the meeting tea was served from a Springtime tea table with Mrs. Irvin Kiffin and Mrs. LeRoy Koehler pouring. Mrs. C. F. Heller, Mrs. E. B. Hughes and Mrs. Charles Reinhardt were co-chairmen of the tea committee which also included Mrs. Edward Knob, Mrs. Frank Kerr, Mrs. R. F. Kistler and Miss Miriam Lark. Mrs. Frederick Trumbour was welcomed as a new member.

Never saw Rachel Arnold of our infants' and children's department look quite so happy as this past Saturday when an Easter orchid arrived from her son, Bob, who is serving with the Navy on the west coast... The lending library at Wyckoff's is one of the store's busiest departments. There are seventy-five different books in circulation now, with the latest addition being Polk's "Diary of a President." James Hilton, John H. Wilson, Jessamyn West, and Erich Maria Remarque are just a few of the widely read authors represented. An inexpensive way to keep up with choice, current literature, the lending library permits its customers to keep a book three days for ten cents... Seems to me that men's ties are handsomer and bolder than ever before. Beau Brummell offers a dazzling array in which polka dots, geometric patterns, and variations of the fleur de lis compete for attention. Fabrics and colors are richer too, leaving mere women envious and "tongue tied"... What nice things money can buy! That stunning new Royal-Haeger pottery, for instance, in towering lamps, console sets that combine candle-holders and bowl in one graceful unit, huge ash trays deep enough to double as bowls, planters, and cornucopias that would be perfect with flowers now, or with fruit later, on a Thanksgiving table. Unusual household accessories such as these can always start me singing the "Buy, Buy Blues"... After months of looking in vain, I found the perfect raincoat at Wyckoff's the other day. It was just what I wanted, and I decided that it would be mine come pay day. Yesterday it has disappeared from the rack—a painful way to learn that other people like the same thing, and merchandise won't hang around forever awaiting one person's decision... "Aunt Annie" Bonser, that skilled queen of the skillet who conducts our employees' cafeteria, is in a springtime mood these days. Her son, Ora, is recuperating at home, following an operation... In my personal opinion, there's nothing daintier than hobnail glass, and particularly the square trays that hold sugar, creamer, salt and pepper shakers all in light blue. Hobnail in rose is a bright addition to the household scene also. What's nicer than looking at the world through rose colored glasses?

Brock's Latest Book To Be Published

By Leonard Randolph

BLOOD, OIL AND SAND by Ray Brock. 256 pp. Published today by World Publishing Co., New York.

One of the hottest political spots in the world today is the Middle East, comprising Iran, Iraq, Israel, Syria, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia in part.

As is usually the case in the existence of such "dynamite" areas the truth is too often made a two-headed coin. This works wonders for all parties interested in the economy and political tenor of the nations involved. The British, for example, may interpret an issue as being favorable to their demands, while the French, Russians or Americans may treat the same issue as equally favorable to their own purposes.

Ray Brock's "Blood, Oil and Sand" arrives at a time when the Middle East situation appears to outside observers to be at its mildest in the past two years. Mr. Brock, however, would be the first to point out that outside appearances are deceptive.

This deception, and others, occupy most of the space in his current volume. The author, a well-known foreign correspondent and radio commentator (for the New York Times and the American Broadcasting System, among others), has spent nearly 15 years in the Middle East. His observations have appeared in newspapers throughout the U.S. "Sand" is made up almost entirely of a compilation of those articles which have previously been published and broadcast, with supplementary remarks by the author.

The most alarming thing about this book is Mr. Brock's contention that the world is teetering on the brink of world war three. The author devotes much space to substantiating this view, which, he attempts to prove, is very nearly a foregone conclusion. Sandwiched between the political prophecies, Brock includes a summary glance of the past histories of most of the Middle Eastern nations.

Running through the book there is a thread of sympathy for the nations involved which lifts "Blood, Oil and Sand" a couple of cuts above the usual analysis of politics. Brock knows the people about whom he is writing. He also has come out of those 15 years as a correspondent with strong likes and dislikes which he does not hesitate to include. This results in harshness in dealing with some nations.

Brock's opinions lend a definite color to the book which might otherwise make it offensive. The writing, however, is good enough to overcome personal bias and prejudice and although there are many flat statements which might have been better documented, the author speaks on to other issues so fast that the reader has little time to object.

The author is well-known in this area. At one time Brock was associated with the Pocono Mountains Horse Show. He worked in Scranton and in this entire region for about six months.

"Blood, Oil and Sand" is a valuable book in that it presents one man's experiences in the politically troubled smaller nations of the world. The portrait of a foreign correspondent at work is one of the best to come out of the post-war period.

Records Broken In Celebration Of Easter Services At St. John's Lutheran Church

The festival of the Lord's Resurrection was fittingly observed in St. John's Lutheran Church with large congregations in attendance at all services. Records were broken in every field. Six hundred members availed themselves of the opportunity to receive the Sacrament of Holy Communion at the several services at which time it was administered. At the Sunrise-Matin service at 6:15 a. m., a large congregation listened to a fine exposition of the Resurrection theme by the Rev. R. W. Goucker, S. T. M. superintendent of the ecclesiastical department of the United Lutheran Church in America. At this service several fine anthems were presented by the senior and chancel choirs of St. John's under the direction of Robert H. Cathcart, organist and choirmaster. The church school at 9:45 a. m. had an attendance of 219.

The service and Holy Communion at 10:45 a. m. found the sanctuary crowded, requiring chairs to accommodate the throng who had come to worship. The Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlson preached the Festival sermon and administered Holy Communion, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Goucker. At this service the group of young people who had been received by the Rite of Confirmation on Palm Sunday received the first communion in a body. Special music was likewise a feature at this service with Mrs. Frederick Diekmann of Brooklyn, N. Y., singing "I know that my Redeemer Liveth" by Handel. Her daughter Miss Louise presided at the organ for the prelude.

The senior choir sang "O Morn of Beauty" by Sibelius. The special offering of Lenten denial banks was consecrated at this service, which total eight hundred dollars, with more to be heard from. These funds will be used to help support the work of Lutheran World Action, which provides spiritual aids to the boys in the armed forces of our nation and to bring relief to Lutherans in Europe, Africa and Korea. The total receipts, including substantial sums for the eighty-fifth anniversary repair fund, exceeded all former offerings for the day.

At three p. m. the pastor administered the Sacrament of Infant Baptism to the following children: Christina Anne Nunn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Nunn with the parents serving as sponsors; Eugene Howard Hagerty, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Otmar F. Hagerty with paternal grandfather and grand uncle, Eugene Hagerty and Millard Hagerty serving as sponsors; Sue Haney daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Masten with the mother serving as sponsor; Mary Alice Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Smith with grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffert of Easton, serving as sponsors; Sarah Ann Frantz, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Geo. L. Frantz with Mrs. Horace Frantz and mother serving as sponsors; Frederick Layton Frantz, son of Lt. and Mrs. Geo. L. Frantz with paternal grandfather Horace Frantz serving as sponsor; and Ravenna

Faith Lobdell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Lobdell, with Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Keiper serving as sponsors.

In the evening at 7 p. m. the church school and congregation united in an Easter Festival service with the singing of Easter carols and the showing of the sound picture "The First Easter" which was well received.

Last evening a reception was tendered to the 47 new members that have been received into membership during the past year. Alfred Munson was master of ceremonies and greetings were extended by A. F. Everitt for the Vestry and congregation, the pastor and the officers of other groups. The members of the Luther League presented a very clever minstrel arrangement to the delight of all. A social hour followed at which time refresh-

Life of Riley

Sports Editor

According to reports reaching this typewriter, the University of Syracuse gives only two baseball scholarships a year, and one is waiting for Ray Steele, East Stroudsburg High athletic great, if he desires to get his college education at Syracuse. Marty Baldwin, well known local sportsman, has made all arrangements for the scholarship and all is needed at present is the nod of Steele's head.

Speaking of Baldwin brings to mind the fact that he, through the cooperation of the Scranton entry in the class "A" Eastern League, will make movies of the 1951 World Series available at tomorrow's meeting of the Junior American Legion baseball team at the George N. Kemp Post, at 7:30 p. m. The same movies will be shown at Stroudsburg High School at 1:30 p. m.

John Schoonover, popular pilot of Pocono A. C., will celebrate birthday number 35 today. The old boy still has plenty of life in his arm and legs—but wouldn't it be nice if he could only hit? Pocono A. C. Monroe County's entry in the Blue Mountain League, will practice at Gordon Giffels field at 8 p. m. each day this week. The club had 15 candidates on hand for last night's drill. There will be several new faces on the club this coming season.

Frank Bell, one of the top baseball players in the history of the sport at Pocono High School and a former top campaigner in the Pocono Mountains League, has turned out to be an equally as good golfer. Both Bell and Schoonover are employed at Line Material, with the former scheduled to miss his regular Wednesday morning golf match because of the opening of fishing season today. The veteran ball hawk needs more than one day to wade the local streams.

Norman Larker, first baseman with Hazleton, of the North Atlantic League, in 1950, is now holding down a similar position with Mobile, of the Southern Association. Marv Jones, former Carbondale, also of the NAL, receiver, failed in his bid to land a catching berth with Scranton, but will probably be seen in action with York, of the class "B" Inter-State League, during the coming campaign. George Heller, former Carbondale hurler, is still a member of the Minneapolis Millers, of the American Association, a triple-A circuit.

Harry Schaeffer, former outstanding pitcher in Monroe County and surrounding area, was a roommate of Gil McDougald's at Beaumont, Tex., of the class "AA" Texas League, two years ago, and now both are teammates on the New York Yankees. Al Gardella, former Bangor and Peekskill manager, in the North Atlantic League, suffered his poorest year in organized baseball last season, when he batted only .219 for Wilmington, of the Inter-State League, during the portion of the campaign he spent with the Philadelphia Phillies' farm.

Stan Pawloski, third baseman for the Stroudsburg Poconos in 1949, is scheduled to play second base for the new Reading entry in the class "A" Eastern League this season. Kirby Farrell is slated to pilot Reading, after leading Cedar Rapids, Ia., to third place in the Three-I League last season. Pawloski divided his time between third and second base at Cedar Rapids last season. Tex Dargiewicz, outfielder with Berwick, also of the NAL, in 1950, is battling for a similar position on the same Reading club at the present time.

Carter Signs To Risk Title Against Salas For Second Time

Los Angeles, (AP)—Jimmy Carter of New York has signed to defend his world's lightweight boxing title again against Lauro Salas in a 15-round fight here May 14, promoter Cal Eaton announced yesterday.

The two staged a slam bang battle here April 1 with Carter winning a unanimous decision but going down for a three-count in the fifth round. Many of the fans thought Salas should have won and he was carried from the ring on the shoulders of his admirers.

Request
Last week the Illinois boxing commissioner asked the National Boxing Association not to recognize the bout as a legitimate title defense. It contended that Salas, the California featherweight champion, is not ranked among the lightweights. Luther Rawlings of Chicago claimed Carter was trying to avoid giving him a title shot.

The May 14 bout will be the third defense of the title Carter won in a surprise knockout victory over Ike Williams last May. The New York Negro decided Art Aron here last November in a fight that grossed over $100,000. The Carter-Salas bout topped $30,000.

Eaton said the rematch will be televised nationally with local outlets blacked out.

Reserves
Gernert is a first baseman and Okrie a catcher.

The Sox said also that pitcher Dick Brodowski had been bought from San Jose and will go to Louisville, and that outfielder Gene Stephens was brought from the Albany club of the Eastern League.

Hart Captures Tennis Crown

Johannesburg, South Africa, (AP)—Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., won the South African Women's Tennis Championship yesterday by defeating Mrs. Julia Wippler of Johannesburg, 6-1, 7-5.

Limit
The Wimbledon champion raced through the first set in 12 minutes but suffered a letdown in the second. Miss Hart was forced to the fullest to pull out the deuced set.

Tigers Buy Bright Prospect

Detroit, (AP)—The Detroit Tigers yesterday bought the contract of lefthanded pitcher Billy Hoelt, who once struck out 27 batters in a perfect no-hit high school game, from their Buffalo farm club.

Return
Hoelt went to Spring training with the Tigers. He won nine and lost 14 to Toledo last year. The Tigers also returned rookie pitcher Paul Foytack to Buffalo, which held his contract while Foytack tried out with the Tigers. That cut the squad to 29.

Turner Stops Varona In Seventh Round

Philadelphia (AP)—Gil Turner, Philadelphia's unbeaten welterweight, scored a seventh-round technical knockout last night over Chico Varona of Havana when the Cuban refused to come out of his corner, complaining vehemently of being sick in the stomach from "17 low blows." Turner weighed 145½ and Varona 143½ for the scheduled ten-rounder at The Arena.

Turner, number one ranking challenger for "Kid" Gavilan's welterweight crown, gained his thirty-first straight victory and twenty-fifth kayo.

Close Call
However, the 21-year-old Philadelphia Negro came closer to defeat last night than at any time in his amateur or professional career. The crowd of 5,644—which paid $17,503.82—came screaming to its feet in the third round when the smallish Cuban smashed a vicious right that sent Turner reeling to the ropes and almost to the canvas.

Turner bounded off, staggered momentarily and then fell into a clinch. Varona tried desperately for the kill, but Turner—seemingly fighting on instinct—managed to regain his wits and finished the round by belting Varona almost through the ropes with a slashing left hook to the body.

Turner's handlers worked furiously on their fighter between rounds and he came back strong to regain the upper hand in the fourth round. He abandoned his usual flailing attack inside and beat Varona off with a left jab.

Varona's handlers continuously shouted from their corner to referee Zach Clayton protesting what they claimed were low blows. In fact, Clayton took away the fifth round from Turner for hitting low.

In round six, Turner went back to his windmill punching attack and smashed the retreating Varona around the ring almost at will.

Varona seemed to have lost his earlier eagerness for battle and several times winced in pain as Turner blasted his body with pulverizing right and left blows.

Nothing appeared to be wrong with the Cuban as he went to his corner after the sixth round, but when the bell rang, he remained seated in his corner. Dr. Joseph Barione, ringside physician, leaped into the ring to see what the trouble was. He told the referee that Varona said he was sick at the stomach and refused to go on.

John "Ox" DaGrosa, Pennsylvania Athletic Commissioner, said he was holding up Varona's purse and a hearing would be held today in the commission office here.

Slade Halts Lester
New York (AP)—Although outweighted by 34½ pounds, Jimmy Slade, 180, New York knocked out Charley Lester, 214½, Detroit, in the sixth of the main bout scheduled for eight rounds at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

Toronto General Manager Quits

The surprise announcement was made with the opening game of the International League season only two days away.

Announcement
Murphy's resignation, effective immediately, was revealed in a joint announcement by Murphy and Jack Kent Cooke, team president.

Frank Pollock of Toronto, formerly concessions manager and associated with the team for 14 years, has been named the new general manager.

Detroit To Play Before Largest Crowd

New York (AP)—Brooklyn and Cleveland, both beaten in the stretch run last fall, are the pennant favorites as the major leagues head into today's opening day program.

Some 250,000 fans are expected to turn out for the opener if the weatherman gives the clubs a break. Detroit's sellout throng of 52,954 undoubtedly will be tops. Although the memory of Bobby Thomson's pennant-clinching home run still is green in the Polo Grounds, the New York Giants find themselves second choice to the Dodgers. In an unofficial rundown, the morning line shows the Brooks edge to five and the Giants five to two.

Departed
Such familiar names as Monte Irvin, Don Newcombe, "Hoot" Evers, Bobby Doerr and Joe DiMaggio will be missing from the box scores for reasons ranging from injuries to the Army draft and retirement.

Leo Durocher will shoot his best—Sal Maglie (23-6)—against the Phillies' number one—Robin Roberts (21-15) when they raise the National League pennant before 35,000 at the Polo Grounds.

Bob Elliott, the ex-Boston Brave, will replace the injured Irvin in left and Davey Williams, a kid from Minneapolis, takes Eddie Stanky's place at second base in the Giant order.

Catcher Smoky Burgess and second baseman Connie Ryan, both acquired in a December trade with Cincinnati, give the Phils two new starters.

Brooklyn's favored Dodgers will field the same club that lost the flag last October 3 with Preacher Roe (22-3) doing the pitching against Boston's rookies at Braves Field.

Second baseman Billy Reed, third baseman Ed Mathews and shortstop Jack Cusick will be newcomers in the Braves lineup behind Warren Spahn (22-14) as Manager Tommy Holmes attempts to carry out his "new faces" policy.

Like Brooklyn, Cleveland will count on virtually the same team that missed last year to do the job on a second try. Rookie Jim Frideley in left field will be the only important change in the Indians' lineup when Early Wynn (20-13) faces Chicago's Billy Pierce (15-14) at Comiskey Park.

Promise
Manager Paul Richards, who promises his Go-Go Sox will kick up "more fun" in the league, will use only one rookie—third baseman Hector Rodriguez from Montreal.

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel sends Vic Raschi (21-10) against the Philadelphia A's, a team he has beaten 20 of 22 starts. His opponent at Shibe Park will be lefthanded Alex Keller (11-14). The A's count on veterans to continue their September spurt of last year.

At Washington, Boston's Mel Parnell (18-11) will face Bob Porterfield (9-8), the ex-Yank. Lou Boudreau, new Boston manager, experimented with youngsters all spring and still has a flock on his roster but is going with his slugger vets.

The National will have one night opener at St. Louis where 30,000 are due to see Eddie Stanky make his managerial debut against Pittsburgh's rebuilt Pirates. Stanky finally decided on Gerry Staley (19-13) to oppose Murry Dickson (20-16).

Cincinnati's customary sellout opener at Crosley Field will find Herm Wehmeier (7-10) getting the call over Ewell Blackwell to pitch against Chicago's Paul Minner (6-17). The Reds will have newcomers Bob Borkowski and Andy Seminick in the lineup.

Young Track Sensation Seeks Olympic Berth

New York (AP)—Boyish Ollie Sax, quarter-mile sensation of the indoor track meets, will try to prove his Olympic potentialities on cinders Saturday in a special 400-meter race of the Seton Hall Relays.

Four world record holders and a full dozen national champions are scheduled to show their wares in the east's outdoor track inaugural, but all eyes will be on the crew-cut kid from Penn State who ran the legs off the world's best during the winter season.

Sax, just 20 and not long out of Kearny, N. J., high school, will face a star-spangled field in the 400 at Newark, N. J., including the world quarter-mile record holder Herb McKinley of Jamaica.

Big Chance
If he can achieve outdoors what he did on three occasions last winter on boards, young Sax will stamp himself as Uncle Sam's number one 400-meter hope in the Olympic games at Helsinki.

Besides McKinley, the New Jersey youngster must face in the 400: Reggie Pearson, former National AAU 800 meter champ; Hugo Malocco, National AAU 600 meter winner in 1950 and 1951; John Nelson and Harry Bright, a pair of hopes from the New York Pioneer Club.

But Sax mainly is concerned about McKinley, the flying Jamaican.

Asked at a New York track writers luncheon yesterday what sort of tactics are needed to beat McKinley in the 400, Sax replied blandly:

"You've got to run the first half of the race as fast as you can and then sprint the last half."

Chicago Hurler Fails Physical
Detroit, (AP)—Pitcher Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox reported here for armed forces induction yesterday but was turned down for medical reasons.

Opening Hurler
Pierce, who won 15 games last year, is scheduled to pitch Chicago's opening game today against the Cleveland Indians.

A spokesman at the local Ft. Wayne Induction Center declined to specify the exact reason Pierce was turned down. Pierce, who lives in suburban Highland Park, passed his pre-induction physical.

Douglas Wins Greensboro Open Crown

Greensboro, N. C. (AP)—Dave Douglas, Newark, Del., professional, won the $10,000 Greensboro Open Golf Tournament by a stroke yesterday with an assist from the rule book.

Douglas finished with 69 for 277, a stroke ahead of Bobby Locke of South Africa. Sam Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., lost a chance to tie for first place when assessed a two-stroke penalty for a rules violation. He dropped to a third place tie at 279 with Ed Oliver, Lemont, Ill., and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco.

Frank Caywood, PGA tournament supervisor, acting under the rules, charged Snead with two strokes for dropping his ball closer to the hole out of a lateral water hazard on the short seventeenth. Snead actually played the hole in five strokes, including one for dropping the ball, but the added penalty gave him a seven, four over par, and cost him his chance to win the tournament a fifth time.

Wall Penalty
Caywood also had to make a ruling that cost Art Wall Jr., Honesdale, Pa., the 54-hole leader, a stroke on the twelfth hole. That dropped him into sixth place at 280. On the par fourth twelfth hole, Wall's tee shot landed near a bridge on the fairway and under the rules he dropped the ball. In so doing, however, he violated a rule by putting spin on the ball in order to get a better lie and was charged an extra stroke for improperly dropping the ball.

Douglas pocketed first money of $2,000 with his seven-under-par total compiled on rounds of 73-64-71-69. His 64 on Saturday set a record for the par-71, 6,630-yard Starmount Forest Country course.

The Snead next-to-last hole incident completely overshadowed other developments. The rule invoked is a new one and apparently "The Slammer" was not aware of the 1952 change. He admitted on the eighteenth green after finishing the round that the ball had been dropped closer to the hole, but said that he had played it the same in other years without penalty.

It was the second major rules ruckus involving the masters champion within a month. In Jacksonville, Fla., last month he figured in an incident centered about a questioned out of bounds drive on his second round. Without a penalty, he finished the 72 holes tied with Doug Ford, but Snead declined a playoff in view of the controversy and forfeited first money to Ford.

The 34-year-old Douglas, a six feet, three inch, 165-pounder pushed his earnings this year to $3,898 with yesterday's pickup. Last year he was the twenty-eighth man on the list with $5,900. His last big win came "in the 1949 Texas Open.

Hoderlein Lost To White Sox

Chicago (AP)—Infielder Mel Hoderlein has been placed on the Chicago White Sox disabled list, general manager Frank Lane announced yesterday.

Hoderlein is recuperating from treatment of a blood clot which developed behind his right knee when he was struck by a batted ball in spring practice.

He will be out of action for at least 30 days.

Block-Busting Brawl Looms In Robinson-Graziano Ring Clash

By Jerry Linka

Chicago, (AP)—A brutal, block-busting brawl looms in tomorrow night's middleweight title bout between champion Sugar Ray Robinson and challenger "Rocky" Graziano, but nobody will get hurt financially.

Interest is so intense in the meeting of these two knockout specialists that a sell-out crowd of more than 10,000 may jam Chicago Stadium.

A capacity mob would produce a $261,000 gross gate and a net gate of $201,702. In addition, there is an $80,000 TV-radio windfall.

On this basis, Robinson's 30 per cent slice would be around $84,000 from both gate and TV-radio. Graziano, trying to recapture the 160-pound crown he held four years ago, would receive about $70,000 on his 25 per cent share. It also would mark the biggest gate yet for the sponsoring International Boxing Club.

Blackout Chicago on TV, of course, has been a big stimulus to ticket sales. But the bout will be broadcast locally and televised and broadcast nationally, a factor that has cut down ticket sales in neighboring cities. For instance, the IBC got back 100 sold tickets from Milwaukee this morning.

However, the IBC already has $200,000 in the till with two days left to go. That's as much as originally hoped for the bout.

Chicago fight fans in 1947 poured into the Chicago Stadium coffers the largest indoor gross in boxing history, $422,000 to see Graziano take the middleweight title from Tony Zale in one of the game's most vicious and bloody scraps.

On February 14, 1951, they saw Robinson win the middleweight crown from Jake LaMotta in a roof-raising brawl at the Stadium that ended in the thirteenth round with LaMotta tottering like a poled ox but still on his feet.

Truman In Final Pitching Role

By Arthur Edson

Washington, (AP)—Harry S. Truman, the only ambidextrous pitcher working in the major league, today makes what probably will be his last presidential pitch.

For the seventh year in a row, Mr. Truman will be opening the baseball season here. This time his toss will send the Boston Red Sox and the Washington Senators away on the 1952 season.

A crowd of 30,000 is expected.

Long Time
Since the President has said he won't run again, this presumably will be the last time he presides over a ceremony that began back on April 14, 1910.

A big husky gentleman who once played amateur baseball in Cincinnati threw out the ball that day. And what William Howard Taft began, every president since has more or less faithfully followed.

None has been more faithful than Truman.

Only Franklin D. Roosevelt attended more openers, eight. But he also sent out a substitute four times: Former Vice President John Garner, Paul McNutt and former Vice President Henry Wallace (twice).

Irvin Placed On Disabled List
New York (AP)—Outfielder Monte Irvin, lost to the New York Giants until mid-season because of an ankle fracture, yesterday was placed on the club's disabled list. He can be reinstated to the active list any time after 30 days.

Option
The Giants also announced the option of pitcher Jake Schmitt to their Minneapolis farm club of the American Association. Schmitt, acquired from the Philadelphia Phillies in a deal for Jack Lohrke last winter, is recuperating from a mild attack of scarlet fever. He will remain with the Giants for a few days, pitching batting practice, and will be given a thorough medical check before he actually joins Minneapolis.

Schmitt, a lefthander, had a 10-14 record at Baltimore in '51.

Phillies Give Simmons Raise In Salary On Basis Of Mound Work Before Entering Army

Philadelphia (AP) — Curt Simmons got a raise yesterday for a job well done two years ago.

The 22-year-old left hander signed his 1952 contract with the Philadelphia Phillies for an undisclosed amount. Club president Bob Carpenter declined to reveal the terms of the contract but admitted it was "more than Curt got for winning 17 games in 1950."

Simmons, who was discharged from the army last week after serving in Germany with the 28th Infantry Division, already is working out his valuable left arm. He pitched for more than an hour yesterday and then did some running at Shibe Park.

"I was throwing that ball real hard," said Simmons after signing his contract in Carpenter's office. "I even broke off a few curves. I felt real good although my legs still are a little stiff. It will take me a few weeks at least before I can even think of throwing in relief."

Simmons, who left the Phillies for active duty with the Pennsylvania National Guard division in September, 1950, said he had a real chance to talk with Manager Eddie Sawyer since he returned to Philadelphia Saturday.

"I've been so busy with radio and television appearances and newspaper interviews, I really haven't had a chance to talk with the Skipper. I don't know what he has in mind for me," said Curt.

Sawyer, in a speech earlier yesterday before a junior chamber of commerce luncheon honoring both the Phillies and the Philadelphia Athletics, said he had had a chance only to say "hello" to his star left-hander.

Simmons had so many pressing engagements that he couldn't workout with his teammates. He went through his paces with the Athletics in a morning workout. The rest of the Phillies ran through drills in an afternoon session. Simmons said Joe Astor of the A's did his catching.

As a result of his new contract, Simmons finds himself in the company of pitcher Robin Roberts and outfielder Richie Ashburn—the only Phillies working for more money this year than their last contract called for.

Almost all of the pennant-winning Phillies in 1950 got sizeable increases in 1951. When the team finished fifth last year, almost all of them received pay cuts. A few managed to hold on to their 1951 pay, with only Roberts and Ashburn meriting increases.

Simmons was reported to have received $15,000 in 1950. The only publicly known detail about this year's contract is that it calls for more than the $140 a month he was getting from Uncle Sam as a sergeant.

Dewey Gives Christenberry Wider Power

Albany, N. Y. (AP) — Boxing boss Bob Christenberry was given iron-fisted controls over the fight game in New York yesterday under terms of a bill approved by Governor Dewey.

The measure gives the chairman of the State Athletic Commission power to purge "the criminal scum" from boxing, to adopt and enforce new safety regulations to reduce ring fatalities and injuries, and to give boxing fans better breaks.

Pay Hike
Dewey signed another bill increasing Christenberry's salary from $7,500 to $12,000 a year. It also raises the pay of the other two members of the commission from $25 to $50 a day for each day they attend meetings. They are Dr. Chlan Powell of New York City and Leon F. Swears of Johnstown.

The main measure, giving Christenberry and the commission board new powers, virtually rewrites the 1920 Walker Law, which legalized boxing in New York State.

A's Option Coleman

Philadelphia (AP) — The Philadelphia Athletics yesterday optioned veteran pitcher Joe Coleman to their Ottawa farm club of the International League, and rookie Tom Hamilton to Savannah, Ga., of the class "A" Sally League.

Sore Arm

Coleman, rated among the American League's better right-handers a few seasons ago, is subject to a 24-hour recall in the hope that he can work the kinks out of his sore arm. Joe won 14 and lost 13 in 1948, his best season, had a 13-14 record in 1949. In 1950 he failed to win a game while losing five, and last year won one, lost six. His spring training work has not been impressive.

Hamilton, who was with the A's through spring training, found the first base competition too tough with Ferris Fain, leading hitter in the league last year, in top shape again for the new season. Savannah also is in the A's farm system.

Bowling Banquet

Bartonsville — An annual banquet of the Pocono Bowling League will take place here at the Bartonsville Hotel tonight to-day, at 7 p.m. Team and individual prizes will be awarded. Dancing begins at 9 p.m.

Judge Rules Against Liberty

Chicago, (AP) — The Federal court refused yesterday to force major league baseball clubs to let Liberty Broadcasting Co., Dallas, Tex., broadcast its "game-of-the-day."

Judge John P. Barnes denied a request by Liberty's lawyer for a temporary order directing 13 of the big league clubs and the Western Union Telegraph Co., to make their games available for broadcast.

Judge Barnes declared he is not satisfied that the clubs and the wire company entered "into an illegal conspiracy." He added that in his opinion the clubs have a right to restrict the rights of persons attending games and that they also had the right to profit derived from games, either directly or indirectly.

Yesterday's decision on the temporary order was apart from the network's suit for 12 million dollars damages from the 13 clubs, presidents of the American and National Leagues and their commissioner. No hearing date has been set for the suit.

The suit names all the major league teams except the Chicago White Sox, Brooklyn and Cincinnati.

Ladies Bowl Tonight

Three matches are scheduled for the East Stroudsburg Ladies' League today, at Harmon's Recreation, at 6:45 p.m. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two—Gap View Inn vs. Square Bar.
Alleys three and four—Quick's Lounge vs. Palace Diner.
Alleys five and six—Twin County Distributors vs. Eagles.

The annual "fishermen's" meeting of Pocono Mountains Sportsmen's Association is to be held in Stroudsburg Municipal building tomorrow at 8 p.m. First reports on the 1952 trout fishing season opening tomorrow will be received.

Teams will be organized to post sportsmanship signs and posters showing special regulations governing the Brodheads Creek artificial lure fishing section.

A committee will also be appointed to place refuse barrels along the streams this year. Started last year, this project achieved excellent results in the continuing effort of sportsmen to keep streams clean.
